PRESIDENT'S PLEA IS ANSWERED

Senate Committee Rejects State Income Tax Plans

TAXATION DEADLOCK TIGHTENED

Measure Passed by Assembly Meets Opposition; Now Goes to Compromise

HULSE LEADS FIGHT

Two and Half Percent Sales Tax Will Be Basis for Compromise, Reported

BULLETIN SACRAMENTO, July 25.—(UP)—The personal income tax bill advanced a long stride toward ultimate final passage today when the senate voted, 23 to 14, to withdraw the measure from the revenue and taxation committee. Action was considered a fair indication of the upper house vote on final passage.

SACRAMENTO, July 25.—(UP)—Further complications to the taxation deadlock were added today when the senate revenue and taxation committee refused to approve the proposed $15,000,000 state income tax bill. The assembly had already passed the measure.

Sentiment in the committee was split almost evenly and proponents of the measure were unable to obtain the necessary seven votes either to send the bill out with a favorable recommendation or even with no recommendation.

As a result the senate has no income measure before it. The free conference committee appointed from both houses to reach a compromise on the sales tax bill must meet without being able to consider the income proposal in the new tax setup, unless proponents are able to withdraw it from committee by a two-thirds senate vote.

Hulse Leads Fight

Opposition to the income tax was led by Senator Ben Hulse, Imperial. He argued it would actually be paid largely by the state's agricultural industry.

Other senators asserted the measure would hit those already paying heavy taxes through sales levies, while persons with large incomes would be able to evade the tax through tax-exempt securities.

Senator Jerrold Seawell, Roseville, declared it would be just "another poor man's tax."

While the vote to send the measure out "without recommendation" was 6 to 5 in favor of the motion, seven votes were required to get the bill out of committee.

May Compromise

A 2 1/2 per cent sales tax dropping automatically to 2 per cent July 1, 1934, will be the compromise recommendation to a free conference committee meeting later today, Assemblyman Charles Lyon of Los Angeles announced.

The committee will seek to iron out differences between the assembly's vote for a 2 per cent tax and the senate's firm stand for 3 per cent.

"Such a compromise would guarantee the public relief from a 2 1/2 per cent tax in the event of inflation," said Lyon.

"The legislature will meet in January, 1935, and if conditions warrant it can reduce the tax before July 1."

The revenue and taxation committee also refused approval of a measure which would have repealed the law giving the state board of equalization power to levy an ad valorem tax on all property in the event there is a shortage in state revenues.

DAMAGE OF $60,000 CAUSED BY SPECTACULAR NIGHT FIRE

MAJOR STUDIOS ARE CLOSED BY STRIKE ORDER

Nearly 3000 Workers Quit Jobs in Sympathy for Striking Soundmen

HOLLYWOOD, July 25.—(UP)—Within a few hours after President Roosevelt issued a plea to labor to refrain from drastic action in the settlement of wage quarrels, 2765 motion picture workers quit their jobs in sympathy for 600 striking sound technicians.

The strike vote resulted in a virtual closing of 11 major studios in Hollywood, although producers, through Louis B. Mayer, head of M-G-M, declared work would continue "as usual."

The sympathetic strike was called by Richard Green, vice president of the International Alliance of Theatrical stage employees, following a meeting of business agents representing the cameramen, laboratory workers, projectionists, a group of electricians, "grips," property men, set dressers, property makers, special effect makers and miniature workers.

It was ordered after the major studios, members of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., sought to replace the sound technicians with non-union men hired through advertisements placed in the newspapers.

It affected production of Educational, Fox, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount, R-K-O Radio, Hal Roach, United Artists, Universal, Warner Bros., First National and Bryan Foy studios.

Semi-official figures issued by four unions affected, classified the striking workers as follows: sound technicians, 665; photographers, 350; laboratory workers, 400; mechanics, 1200, and projectionists, 150.

Projectionists employed in motion picture theaters were not affected by the strike order, although members of the I.A.T.S.E. Some 40 independent companies, renting or operating their own plants were not affected by the order.

While the sound men went on strike at midnight Saturday, studios resumed work on a curtailed scale yesterday, using other workers who had been trained in sound technique.

But with the walkout of the all-important cameramen, who are nearly 100 per cent organized, production was at a standstill.

Trouble has been brewing in the industry for many months. When the nation's banks closed last March, the studios placed all workers on a half-salary basis.

The order, however, was not applicable to the union workers because of a basic agreement between members of the producers association—those affected by the strike order and international union heads.

REPORTED 7 KILLED IN CRASH OF PLANE

OCEANSIDE, Calif., July 25.—(UP)—Seven men were reported killed when an army bombing plane lost a wing and crashed 500 feet to the ground a mile east of here today.

Every occupant of the plane was killed almost immediately. Then the damaged craft fell in a series of crashes, scattering wreckage in the tangle of wood and metal.

Eyewitnesses said the first warning of the impending wreck came with a crackling sound as one wing of the large ship crumpled and was ripped from the fuselage.

In an awkward downward plunge to strike the first. The terrific force of the dive telescoped the fuselage about the bodies of its occupants.

Fails In His Attempt To Escape Prison

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 25.—(UP)—When 30 ministers came to visit the "bull-pen" of the county jail here, Leo Redoni, prisoner, produced a pair of dark glasses and a flap-brimmed, ecclesiastical hat from some hidden crevice and joined the party.

He was walking down the sidewalk, after shaking hands with the jailers, when Deputy Sheriff John Moore noticed that the rest of Redoni's garb was not at all ministerial.

Ministers, many of them strangers to one another, protested when Moore dove into the group and seized Redoni.

PROBE OF BULL STOCK MARKET IS DEMANDED

Legislative Action Sought to Prevent Abnormal Market Fluctuations

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(UP)—Congressional demands for immediate investigation of last week's spectacular deflation of the Roosevelt bull market was coupled today with proposals for legislative action to prevent abnormal market fluctuations.

The administration was refusing to meddle in the stock market situation for the time being at least, although it was taking stern action to stabilize the grain markets. Capital hill was concerned over both.

Senator Steiwer, Repn., Ore., proclaimed an open season on bears. He accompanied his statement with a telegram to Ferdinand Pecora, senate stock market investigation counsel, urging immediate checkup of the factors involved in last week's market break.

Steiwer is a member of the investigating committee. "Further bear riding must be checked," Steiwer said. "The past week's shrinkage of commodities and securities on the various exchanges, whether due to over-speculation, bear raiding, or both, interfere seriously with the national efforts to restore confidence and to increase wages and commodity prices."

Steiwer proposed a legislative plan to prevent in some measure abnormal market movements such as that of last week and of the Autumn of 1929. It was as follows:

1. Use by all corporations reporting income of the treasury of a simplified form which would enable the reader to determine approximately the liquidating value of all classes of securities out-

S. A. Storage Building To Be Rebuilt

Entire Contents of Plant Burned and Interior Completely Razed

WITH THE total damage estimated to be at least $60,000, one of the most spectacular fires in several years broke out last night and completely wrecked the large two story building occupied by the Santa Ana Transfer and Storage company at Van Ness and Fourth streets.

Thousands of persons surrounded the blazing building and watched the fire department battle the flames from 7:50 o'clock to 2:30 a. m., when the last embers were extinguished. Most of the basement was flooded with about 4 feet of water and the two wooden floors in the building partly collapsed and burned through.

The principal loss was the large stock of furniture and household articles stored on the second floor and in the basement, all of which was a total loss. Actual value of the stock will not be determined until a complete check is made by the storage company but E. U. Dickinson, manager, estimated that there were about 100 allotments of furniture in the building.

Cause of Blaze

Fire Chief John Luxembourg, after examining the ruins with his investigators today, advanced the theory that the fire started from spontaneous combustion near the elevator shaft on the second floor. From this point, the flames swept over the entire second floor and roof before it was noticed. Damage to the building was estimated at $15,000 and $45,000 to the stock.

The first alarm was turned in

RODEO FOR CHILDREN UNDER 12 YEARS OF AGE WILL BE FIESTA FEATURE THURSDAY

ONE OF THE highlights of the Thursday afternoon program of the Fiesta del Oro, one of the five shows to be staged during the three-day historical celebration which opens Thursday morning, will be a junior rodeo, open to all boys and girls under 12 years of age in Orange county, it was announced today by Fiesta officials.

Monte Reger and Monte Montana, expert riders and ropers, will be in charge of the various events planned in the juvenile show.

The first event, which is expected to provide a great deal of amusement, is a boy and girl dog derby. Boys and girls can enter any kind of a dog, greyhounds, or bulldogs, pedigreed pets or canines of doubtful ancestry.

The idea is to have the youths run a race for 50 yards with their musts on a leash or rope. A boy's calf roping contest is another of the events. All entrants will scramble at once after one calf, on foot. The first one to rope the calf wins the contest.

Calf Riding

A thrilling event will be a boys' calf riding contest. The calf will be ridden with but a loose rope and no saddle. Another event is a boys' and girls' rope spinning contest. Entrants in this contest must do three or more tricks, such as a body spin, spin rope flat in front of body and juggle the rope.

While winners of the contests will get awards, a special award is to be made in the rope spinning contest by Monte Montana, who will donate a fine rope and who will teach the winner new tricks. Many entries have come in since it was decided to hold the contest. Entrants can apply for participation by contacting Reger or Montana.

The Thursday afternoon program will begin with the grand entry as the big parade makes its way from the downtown area to the stadium where it will pass in review. Following presentation of colors, introduction of celebrities and guests will take place with Abe Lefton, of rodeo and radio fame, acting as master of ceremonies.

Monte Reger will feature his educated Texas longhorn steer in the most spectacular of its stunts, one which has attracted nationwide attention. The steer will hurdle an automobile at this and other performances.

Trick Horse

Ed Stinson and his eight-horse hitch will give an exhibition. Dan Williams and his trick horse will be featured on the program and many other trick riders will be

Roosevelt Appeals to All Workers and Employers in Address Over Radio

WASHINGTON, July 25.—(UP)—Pledges of allegiance approaching war time fervor poured in on the government today as Americans answered President Roosevelt's call for a united and immediate offensive to conquer the enemy of depression.

"It will be done," was the slogan of thousands of messages which streamed to the White House in response to President Roosevelt's appeal to all employers, large and small, to sign an agreement fixing fair and uniform wages for all and spreading employment by shortening working hours.

"A common covenant," the president called it—a covenant "in the name of patriotism and humanity."

The way to better times for all has been carefully charted, Mr. Roosevelt said in his nationwide appeal last night, and "it is time for courageous action."

Thousands Respond

The president barely had finished speaking from his White House study before the telegraph wires into Washington were jammed with messages pledging support of big corporations, small business men and consumers.

An official of one telegraph company estimated the number of messages for Mr. Roosevelt would reach 10,000 before the morning was far advanced. His company held three times the usual number of employees to handle the stream of responses that came in during the night.

He said he could recall no such response to a presidential appeal since Woodrow Wilson in 1917 summoned the nation to a different kind of war.

Calling for the cooperation of the entire public as well as employers, Mr. Roosevelt explained the re-employment campaign in phrases for the complete understanding of the "forgotten man."

Roosevelt Plan

"If all employers will act together to shorten hours and raise wages, we can put people back to work. No employers will suffer, be-

AIMEE RETURNS COUNTY BOARD ASSERTING HER AID PROGRAM LOVE FOR DAVE OF ROOSEVELT

Evangelist Will Disembark From Liner Tomorrow at Baltimore

A BOARD LINER CITY OF HAVRE OFF NORFOLK, Va., July 25.—(UP)—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, the evangelist, returned to American shores today, bound home to Los Angeles to tell her husband that she still loves him.

The fact that Hutton, the "Angelus Temple baritone," has indicated that his love for the evangelist had cooled, failed to discourage the blond, and awn-haired preacher of the gospel.

She always will love him, she sighed today on her return journey to Los Angeles from Paris, where she said she underwent an abdominal operation.

"I love Dave still," she said, "of course I love him."

Mrs. Hutton reclined on the bunk of Captain Harold T. McCaw of the liner City of Havre as she talked in a husky voice about her husband, who wants to leave her to become a vaudeville actor.

"But I can't believe he wants to leave me," insisted the pastor of Angelus Temple, and heroine of half a dozen front page features since her celebrated desert kidnapping a decade ago.

"This divorce action, its all so hasty," she explained as a nurse gently smoothed her skirts about her legs. "We've received no word from him about it."

"The last word I had from him was that he loved me so much and he was just counting the minutes until I got back."

"My yes," interrupted the nurse, Miss Baynietta Middleton. "It was a tremendous shock."

"Goodness yes," continued Mrs. Hutton, "it was an awful shock. But I'm still in love with him. And I don't want to say anything unkind about his—vaudeville career."

NO WORD IS HEARD FROM KIDNAPED MAN

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 25.—(UP)—The grieving family of Charles F. Urschel, isolated in their home today issued a new appeal to the kidnappers of the multi-millionaire oil man, advising them "the case is in your hands and we are ready to negotiate."

No word has come from the gangsters who have held the 40-year old head of the vast Slick-Urschel estate for almost 80 hours.

A new plan for having five or six widely scattered relatives or friends to act as contacts where the kidnappers could make ransom demand at any time was discussed in a family conference last night, it was learned.

S. A. BUILDING DESTROYED BY NIGHT BLAZE

at 7:30 p. m. by Patrolman Jake Foster, who noticed the flames at a block away. It was believed that the fire had been burning at least 15 minutes before the alarm was given and before the fire department could arrive on the scene the building was blazing on all sides.

With eight hoses being utilized to battle the flames, the second floor fire was partially extinguished by 9 o'clock. Unnoticed by the firefighters, the flames spread in the basement and soon the lower floor was smoking. It was impossible to get hoses in the basement.

Open Up Sidelark
By opening up sidewalk ventilators and chopping holes in the wooden floor, access was gained to the basement and the fire extinguished. In the meantime part of the floor gave way and endangered the safety of the firefighters. Occasional outbursts of flame on the second floor kept the men busy and even at a late hour today, smoldering furniture had to be drenched with water.

Dr. W. Dixon, owner of the building, who is now in the east, could not be reached today and it is not believed that much insurance was carried on the building. Very little coverage was carried on the furniture, as far as could be determined.

More than $25,000 of valuable Oriental rugs were saved by Dickinson and his men before the fire spread to the front part of the storage office. Office files and the safe were also removed but nothing else could be salvaged. Seven pianos and two radios, stored in a cement room on the first floor, were partially water-soaked but otherwise escaped injury.

B. E. Morthland, Auburn dealer, had occupied the garage on the first floor but moved out only a few days ago. One car stored in the building was completely destroyed. Office equipment, plate glass damaged or broken and the badly damaged or broken and the entire building will have to be rebuilt. Fireproof walls and prompt action by the firefighters prevented the spreading of the fire to adjoining buildings.

Boy Scouts Aid
Efficient help was rendered by the firefighters by about 15 members of the Fire auxiliary of the Boy Scouts, under the direction of Captain Sammy Tucker, Battalion Chief Harold Woodard and Melvin Durbin, and Past Chief Carl Bower. They patrolled the street, held hoses and watched the ruins all night. Valuable service in policing was also given by the complete force of the police department and many members of the junior police.

Six trucks answered the call from all four fire houses. None of the firemen sustained serious injury although there were many cuts, bruises and minor injuries. Chief Luxenburger was bruised on the leg when a nozzle broke away from the firemen. Chief A. S. Tomblin of Orange assisted in the fighting and his equipment was ready to rush to the fire if needed.

The fire could be seen for many miles and thousands of people watched the flames. All traffic and street car travel was suspended in the vicinity of the building. Coffee and doughnuts were served throughout the evening to the firemen by the Salvation Army.

CLAIM DIRECTOR POSED AS OFFICER

Impersonating an officer led to the arrest, arraignment and jailing of C. G. Lewis, 28, studio director of 807 South Fedora street, Los Angeles, who was booked at the county jail last night by Newport Beach officers.

Lewis is charged with making improper proposals to Alveda Connelly, 20, 1506 East Central avenue, Newport Beach, after appropriating the police badge of a reporter on a foreign language newspaper of Los Angeles, who was visiting him yesterday. Judge W. B. Leonard set his preliminary hearing for tomorrow and set bail at $1000 which Lewis could not make.

Officers declared that Lewis, after taking the badge of Clay Page, 28, the reporter, accosted Miss Connelly on the pier and said he was a detective working on a stabbing case. He told her she resembled a girl involved and wanted to question her. He is asserted to have taken her to his hotel room, where she said he made improper advances.

Page, who was absent during the affair, was arrested when he returned but was released when he gave a satisfactory explanation of the badge.

AID PROMISED TO ROOSEVELT BY THOUSANDS

cause the relative level of competitive cost will advance by the same amount for all. But if any considerable number should lag or shirk, this great opportunity will pass us by and we will go into another desperate winter. This must not happen."

That is the gospel that will be hammered home in every city and hamlet of the land. The president's address set the keynote for thousands of speakers and campaign workers under direction of the recovery administrator who will carry on the drive to obtain every employer's signature to agreements setting a minimum wage of $15 a week for industrial labor and $15 for "white collar" employees.

The chief executive warned of penalties in the law for the laggards but added that "I am now asking the cooperation that comes from opinion and conscience. These are the only instruments we shall use in this great summer offensive against unemployment."

"But," he explained, "we shall use them to the limit to protect the willing from the laggard and to make the plan succeed."

The public's duty, he emphasized, is to support businessmen who abide by the agreements.

"In war, in the gloom of night attack, soldiers wear a bright badge on their shoulders to be sure that comrades do not fire on comrades. On that principle, those who cooperate in this program must know each other at a glance. That is why we have provided a badge or honor for this purpose, a simple design with a legend, 'We Do Our Part', and I ask that all those who join with me shall display that badge prominently."

Roll of Honor
Likewise, he explained, a "roll of honor" of cooperating firms and individuals will be displayed in the postoffice of every town.

"If all employers in each competitive group agree to pay their workers the same wages—reasonable wages—and require the same hours—reasonable hours—then higher wages and shorter hours will hurt no employer," Mr. Roosevelt declared.

"Moreover, such action is better for the employer than unemployment and low wages, because it makes more buyers for his product. This is the simple idea which is the very heart of the industrial recovery act."

"On the basis of this simple principle of everybody doing things together, we are starting out on this nation-wide attack on unemployment. It will succeed if our people understand it—in the big industries, in the little shops, in the great cities and in the small villages. There is nothing complicated about it and there is nothing particularly new in the principle. It goes back to the basic idea of society and of the nation itself that people acting in a group can accomplish things which no individual acting alone could even hope to bring about."

Mr. Roosevelt illustrated the benefits of united action by pointing out that the textile code wiped out child labor at one fell swoop while "no employer acting alone was able to wipe it out."

Turning again to the blanket code for all industry, Mr. Roosevelt observed:

"This agreement has already brought a flood of approval from every state, and from so wide a cross-section of the common calling of industry that I know it is fair to all. It is a plan—deliberate, reasonable and just—intended to put into effect at once the most important of the broad principles which are being established, industry by industry, through codes."

"Naturally, it takes a good deal of organizing and a great many hearings and many months, to get these codes perfected and signed, and we cannot wait for all of them to go through. The blanket agreements, however, which I am sending to every employer, will start the wheels turning now, and not six months from now."

To the millions of men and women wage earners affected by the codes, the president also had a definite message and a word of encouragement. He declared that "the codes and the agreements already approved, or about to be passed upon, prove that the plan does raise wages and that it does put people back to work."

"You can look on every employer who adopts the plan as one who is going his part," the president said, "and those employers deserve well of everyone who works for a living. It will be clear to you, as it is to me, that while the striking employer may undersell his competitor, the saving he thus makes is made at the expense of his country's welfare."

Pointing out that while he could not guarantee the success of the plan, the president asserted that the people could, expressing the belief that "we can greatly influence economic forces."

Mr. Roosevelt began his address by recounting briefly for his stewardship during the last four months and a half. He reviewed the moves for strengthening the financial structure of the government and the nation through his administration's action in the banking situation and in reducing expenditures to meet income.

Then he traced the steps toward increasing the purchasing power of the farmer through a reduction of crop acreage and production.

JURY DECIDES PLANE CRASH IS ACCIDENTAL

Accidental death caused by an airplane falling into the ocean was the verdict given at noon today by a coroner's jury at the inquest held at the Chezim mortuary in Costa Mesa for Albert C. Riedel, 20, Anaheim, and Robert Ferrell, 31, Tustin, who were killed Saturday night while flying over the Tournament of Lights.

Coroner Earl Abbey conducted the inquest and obtained testimony from 12 witnesses, chief of whom were W. L. Salisbury, friend of Ferrell; P. M. Rogers and Verne Speich, aviators; M. S. Robinson, harbor master, and Lyle Ellis, employee of Smith brothers, who helped to extricate the bodies from the wreckage.

Funeral services for the two aviators were announced today. Riedel's body is to be sent to St. Louis tomorrow under the direction of Harrell and Brown Funeral home of Santa Ana, while services for Ferrell will be held from the Winbiger Funeral home Wednesday at 2 p. m., with interment in Wichita, Kans.

George Macleod, secretary of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, declared today that the Tournament of Lights committee made a contract with the Martin airport for an illuminated plane and that Riedel and Ferrell were not hired directly to make the flight. He also declared that they were not to fly if the weather was foggy.

Riedel, a student of Ferrell, had purchased his plane only a few weeks ago, and Ferrell was piloting the ship when it suddenly plunged into the ocean. Thousands of persons watching the parade saw the plane, illuminated with fireworks, take the fall into the water. Searchlights from the battleships Chester and Salt Lake City were played on the spot and a buoy anchored for rescue work.

The plane was towed into the harbor Sunday and the bodies extricated from the wreckage. They had been strapped in the cockpit and had no opportunity to use their parachutes. The plane did not catch fire from the fireworks. It was declared by aviators, and it is believed that Ferrell was blinded by the glare.

Ferrell is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elsie H. Ferrell and two children, Richard, 7, and Virginia, 4. They were at their ranch home at the time of the crash.

Riedel is survived by his mother, Mrs. Leonie Riedel; one sister, Mary Jane, 17, and a brother, Billy, 7. They had moved to a home west of Anaheim about two months ago. The family, together with Miss Dode Roth, fiancée of Riedel, saw the plane fall.

Mexican Jailed After Stabbing

Infuriated when Simon C. Evangelista, 39, Stanton Mexican, refused to repay a debt of $12.55, Nisanor Anquillano is reported to have stabbed Evangelista two times in the arm. He was arrested and jailed early today by Deputy Sheriff Merle Dean for assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

Anquillano saw the other Mexican put a $10 bill in a letter addressed to Mrs. Evangelista and started to argue about the debt. It was told to officers. Evangelista was taken to the hospital after the fight to have his wounds treated. Dean captured Anquillano after a long chase which ended in a berry patch in Garden Grove. He admitted stabbing Evangelista when brought to the jail.

DEFENDANT IN DAMAGE ACTION AWARDED $468

Named as defendant in a damage suit tried before Superior Judge James L. Allen last Friday and completed yesterday, W. H. Booth and Company, Inc., was given judgment late yesterday for $468.55 and costs on their cross complaint.

Booth and company was sued by Jack Carr Jr. and Mathew B. Butler, doing business as the Western Industrial Engineering company, in an effort to recover $1374.98, allegedly due on a machine making machine constructed and installed at the Booth and company plant here.

In their suit Carr and Butler alleged that they manufactured and installed the machine on a contract price of $2571.51 of which $114.53 had been paid.

The cross complaint Booth and company charged that the equipment was to have been delivered for a total cost of $1835. The machinery was to be installed within six weeks after signing the contract in order that tamales for the fall and winter business could be prepared. The machine, according to the cross complaint, was not installed on time and when installed could not be operated until an additional expenditure bringing the cost of the machine up to $2975 had been made.

On the cross complaint Booth and company asked for $2500 for losses incurred through failure to have the machine installed on time and an additional $1140 allegedly expended to make the machine operate.

NAMES 'OTHER MAN' IN DIVORCE ACTION

Alleging infidelity and naming Robert Rae as the "other man," F. T. Williams, employee of the city of Fullerton, has filed suit for divorce from Mrs. Ruth A. Williams. In his complaint, Williams alleges that Rae, when confronted with information obtained by Williams, admitted intimate relations with Mrs. Williams.

According to the complaint the relation between Mrs. Williams and Rae has continued since June, 1929, but was revealed to Williams June 13, 1933. He said that he had read letters filled with endearing terms that had been written by Mrs. Williams and Rae.

Williams also accused his wife of coldness toward him and with refusal to associate with his friends and using unkind language toward his father.

LAGUNA BOARD SEEKS CUT IN COUNTY COSTS

In a letter signed by Roy M. Ropp, president, the Laguna Beach Realty board transmitted to the board of supervisors a resolution approved by that organization urging the board to reduce the cost of county government for the next fiscal year 25 per cent under the cost for 1932-33.

A second letter read to the board from Laguna Beach city council petitioned the supervisors to install, at the intersection of Pearl and Ocean streets, an ornamental street light.

Following reading of the realty board letter, members of the board pointed out that the supervisors have control of less than 17 per cent of the amount involved in the cost of county government.

The realty board resolution pointed out that during the past two years the county has been in the grip of a business depression and that the entire cost of county and municipal government is charged to the owners of real estate.

It also declared that the high assessed valuations, assessment abuses and the small and diminishing returns from real estate have brought an unprecedented number of land owners into bankruptcy or to the verge of bankruptcy.

The resolution also declared that the excessive cost of county and municipal government has been recognized by economists as one of the chief causes of the depression and its continuation.

Pointing out that there is at present no large projects of major importance requiring the large expenditure of public funds, the resolution declared that any benefits accruing from such expenditures would be many times lost by continuing to pile financial burdens on the owners of real estate.

Bail was set at $1000, which Cruz could not make.

Asks Divorce On Grounds Husband Guilty Of Felony

Citing as grounds for divorce the fact that her husband pleaded guilty to a felony in 1931, Mrs. Mabel Mendez, had filed suit in superior court for a divorce from Mike Mendez.

In her complaint, Mrs. Mendez alleges that on June 30, 1931, Mendez pleaded guilty to possession of a still and was granted probation for a period of three years. She also charged that on June 5, 1932, her husband engaged in a fist fight and as a result of the battle, was confined in the hospital, which caused her considerable humiliation.

Mrs. Mendez also charged that on many occasions her husband was unable to go to his employment on Monday morning "because of his habits and manner of living during the week end."

Mendez was also accused of striking his wife and with telling her that he hated her and ordering her to leave the house.

Fiesta Float Is Given 2nd Place

The Fiesta del Oro float, entered in the annual Tournament of Lights in Newport bay, won second prize in the civic division, it was announced today by George Macleod, secretary of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

Macleod made the announcement to correct reports which excluded Santa Ana's entry from the list of winners of the brilliant water pageant.

Pasadena Tournament of Roses won the sweepstakes and the city of Long Beach won first prize in the civic group, in which the Fiesta del Oro float was entered. Two accidents prevented the Fiesta float from winning higher awards, it was believed. The illumination was deranged when the lights were knocked off when the boat struck a plank at Lido Isle. Later the motor in the boat carrying the float stalled and the float was out of the parade for a time.

Dave Jones is spending the summer months with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Freeman, in Los Angeles.

MUSIC REGAL GIVEN HERE BY YOUNG PUPILS

ORANGE, July 25.—An interesting musical program was presented recently by pupils of Mrs. C. A. Fiene and Miss Alice M. Fiene, at their studio at 246 North Grand street. The spacious rooms of the Fiene home were filled to utmost capacity by friends and relatives of the young performers. About 120 people were present, who listened with interest to the various piano, violin, clarinet and orchestra numbers.

The high light of the evening was the presentation of two nursery rhymes, the melody being played on the piano by a young pupil, the words sung by a chorus, and the action pantomimed by other pupils. Janice Cole was Little Miss Muffet, and Meredith Fitzgerald, Arthur Burke, Alvin Wagner, Eleanor Boim, Eldon Winters and Jocelyn Dillingham enacted "Hey Diddle-diddle."

Among piano solos given were the following: "Prelude in C-sharp Minor," Rachmaninoff; "Autumn," Chaminade; "The Humming Bird," Poulton; "Japanese Dance," Frothingham, played by Beverly Bertmann who was attended by Irene Ladd. Both were in Japanese costume. "Valse Aerienne," Spindler; "At The Fountain," Franke; "Cabaletta," Lack; "Fifth Nocturne," Leybach; "Valse Caprice," Newland; "The Polish Dancers," Krentzlin; "The Dying Poet," Gotschalk; "Minuet in G," Beethoven; "Yakima," Rags played by Arthur Bunko, in Indian costume, and many others.

A violin solo, "Cavatina," Raff, was played by Gloria Schre; Madrigals, Simonetti, was played by Bernard Cook. Herschel Schwendeman of Placentia, who is also a piano pupil of Miss Alice Fiene, gave a clarinet solo, "Air and Variations," Berr.

The orchestra, consisting of Beverly Bertmann, piano; Gloria Schre and Bernard Cook, violin; and Herschel Schwendeman, clarinet, played "Melody in Love," by Engelmann, and "In a Rose Garden," by Ewing. In a third number, "Poet and Peasant," overture by von Suppe, Margaret Hughes and Beverly Bertmann played the piano accompaniment as a duet. The various theory classes presented rhythm orchestra numbers, playing on percussion instruments.

The junior department presented "Echoes of Seville," Grey, assisted by the orchestra. The intermediate department played "Moment Musical," Schubert; and the senior department assisted the regular orchestra in rendering "The Joyous Peasant," Schumann.

At the close of the program Mrs. Orilla Bigelow of the Anaheim School of Fine Arts, a harmony pupil of Miss Alice Fiene, presented a group of numbers on the Hawaiian and Spanish guitar with her pupil Mrs. Frances Lumley, also of Anaheim. By special request Eldon Winters gave a reading entitled "Murder."

The following piano pupils took part in the program: Vivian Beattie, Edward Bergemann, Beverly Bertmann, Eleanor Boim, Arthur and Margaret Bunko, Arline Clark, Janice Cole, Chester and Donald Curti, Meredith Fitzgerald, Elizabeth Griffin, Betty Hobbs, Margaret Hughes, Irene Hyman, Dorothy Schroeder, Herschel Schwendeman, Lola Mae Sharar, Rosalie Smith, Gertrude Emma Stratton, Shirley Wade, Alvin and Violet Wagner, Merle May Weimer, Virginia Wells, and Eldon Winters.

Special theory pupils included Gloria Schre, Bernard Cook, Irene Ladd, Jocelyn Dillingham. Piano pupils who found themselves unable to be present because of previously planned vacation trips, were: Maryesther Wood, Margaret Seba and Harry Krothe, of Orange; and Harriet Fowler and Audrey Van Beek of Santa Ana.

Following the program, refreshments of punch and delicious home made cookies were served. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. C. H. Wagner, Miss Alvina Sleaf of Chicago, Miss Lucille Cook, and number of pupils. The rooms were decorated with a variety of beautiful garden flowers, kindly donated by pupils and friends.

The first semester will close Friday with a program given at each church. Parents and those interested are invited to attend.

One of the card tables was placed in the playhouse of the little daughter of the hostess, Miss Jacqueline Coburn, who asked each player to register her name in her guest book.

News Of Fullerton and Vicinity

GROUP FORMED IN PROTEST OF NEW DISTRICT

ATWOOD, July 25.—"Not only for protection of property against increased taxation, but for insuring that our children will have an opportunity to continue in one of the best schools in United States" was given last night as a reason for formation of the Valencia High School Protesters group when 30 citizens met at the J. D. Duer home here to discuss ways and means of combating the forming of a separate high school district, and withdrawing from the Fullerton Union High school district.

The meeting followed a summons by leading citizens of the Richfield district to formulate plans for getting out a protest vote at the polls next Monday. The Richfield residents, part of the Placentia Union Grammar school district, which at present is part of the Fullerton Union High school district, expressed the belief last night that they have a right to reap benefits from the school at Fullerton that their tax money helps build, and they presented figures showing that at the very lowest possible rate, it will increase taxes to educate the Placentia Union district high school people at home, while the Fullerton union school has an almost minimum rate at present, and very little bonded indebtedness.

The Placentia district, if succeeding in getting a majority vote to ballot for withdrawal and formation of the Valencia district, would have to bond itself, besides, it was pointed out.

Through efforts of leading citizens and the Placentia Chamber of Commerce, a bill was passed two years ago at legislative session that gave union districts like Placentia right to withdraw. The voters took action this spring when signing petition to the county superintendent of schools, Ray Adkins, and presenting these petitions to state board of education, where permission was granted to call an election to get the will of the people on withdrawal.

Proponents of the plan point to it as one of economy. Those who met last night said it can be economy to build a separate plant, and moreover, the advantages of the Fullerton school cannot be duplicated in a small school.

E. A. Rodick, chairman of the meeting, said it simply looked ridiculous to him that when the bills are paid at the Fullerton school, "and we have about $600,000 invested in that splendid plant to withdraw now that we are reaping the benefits of investment in a low tax rate."

Charles G. Teed was elected secretary of the meeting and J. P. Duer was elected treasurer. The group is planning to get information before the citizens.

CONGRESSMAN SAYS CURE FOR DEPRESSION IS IN CONFIDENCE OF PEOPLE

FULLERTON, July 25.—Expressing confidence in the American people, and declaring that he believed that recovery from the present depression can be made through establishing the attitude of confidence in the government and the American people, Sam Collins, representative from this district to congress, yesterday told members of Fullerton Kiwanis club of the measures passed at the last session.

Collins said he voted for all except two of the 12 major measures presented at the session, and that after a revision in the senate, he balloted a "yes" vote on the economy bill. He voted "no" on the beer bill.

In regard to the economy bill, Collins told the Kiwanians he felt, when he first voted "no" that the title of the bill was misleading, and indicated that the United States was bankrupt, but after certain assurances were eliminated he voted for the measure. If the bill worked a hardship on certain deserving World War veterans, it also saved the government many thousands in eliminating paying pensions to many who did not deserve them, he said, and expressed hope the adjustment will be fair and equitable.

The congressman said 12 major bills were passed with 60 hours discussion in all. He said that the congress was really most seriously minded, and spent whole sessions trying to bring the country out of the depression.

Preceding the talk, J. B. Horner presided at the business session where an announcement was made that Hubert Dawson will be in charge of the "eats"; Al Foster of the entertainment and Ralph Irvine of the sports at the Kiwanis picnic to be held soon at Irvine park. Archie Raitt will be in charge of cooking the barbecue dinner.

Dr. J. H. Lang introduced the speaker. Harry May, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, asked that Harry Williams represent the Kiwanians on the general committee to be formed from representatives of civic organizations to help put over the new National Industrial Recovery act. Dan O'Hanlon reported on a telegram received from the administration asking for formation of such a group to assist.

GIRL AND MAN FOUND GUILTY GRAND THEFT

Pearl Miller and F. W. Underwood were found guilty of grand theft and the Miller girl was found guilty of an additional count of petit theft late last night by a jury that deliberated for approximately nine hours. Members of the jury could not reach agreement on the fate of Clara Miller, the 18-year-old sister of the convicted woman.

The trio was accused by the district attorney of two counts each grand theft and burglary. Underwood was found not guilty of burglary and the petit theft count was contained in the burglary charge against the Miller woman.

Underwood and the Miller woman waived time for pronouncement of judgment and will be sentenced this morning at 10 a. m. Both applied for probation but the applications were denied because of prior convictions against them in Arizona.

The younger Miller girl will appear in court again Friday morning for further hearing before Judge G. K. Scovel.

The trio was accused of stealing the automobile, cash and revolver of Robert Allen, professional tennis instructor of Los Angeles while they were his guests at a house in Balboa several weeks ago.

Allen picked up the trio on the highway as they were hitch-hiking to San Diego. He had promised to take them to the southern city on the following day.

During the night, according to Allen's testimony, the trio departed with his automobile, cash and revolver. The automobile was recovered in San Diego and the trio apprehended in El Centro.

Testifying on her own behalf, Clara Miller accused Allen with criminal assault. She alleged that Allen sent her sister and Underwood downtown for alcohol and while they were gone he attacked her. Allen denied the charge on the witness stand.

DENY REQUEST OF GUARDS FOR $200

Lack of funds and drastic cuts in the city budget were cited by the city council last night as reasons for denying the request of Company I, National Guard, for $200 for the mess fund of the men while they are in summer encampment at San Luis Obispo.

Col. M. B. Wellington, speaking on behalf of the guardsmen, pointed out that the government rations were barely enough to feed the men and that Santa Ana should continue the custom of past years in giving money.

It was pointed out by the councilmen that they were opposed to giving money where it was not absolutely needed, in view of the wholesale wage reductions put into effect last week. They expressed appreciation for the work of the National Guard during the earthquake and proposed that a collection or donations might be started to help the men.

Associated Oil Opens Campaign

Associated Oil company has inaugurated in approximately 150 western newspapers one of the most important advertising campaigns in its history, heralding the introduction throughout the Pacific coast region of a new Flying A gasoline.

Newspapers have again been chosen to carry the backbone of the new and extensive campaign, according to P. E. Allan, domestic sales manager for the company. "Associated Oil company, with experience gained from the use of many advertising media, consider the daily newspaper the major factor in efficiently carrying its sales message to the public," he stated.

"Faith in Western business conditions together with confidence in the outstanding merit of the new Flying A gasoline are the factors which have brought about the major advertising investment we are making," he continued.

"The marked improvement in Pacific coast business conditions during the past few months leads us to believe that the manufacturer with a quality product is now in a position to reap maximum results from his dollar invested in advertising."

Auto Accidents Gain This Year

According to statistics compiled by one of the leading insurance companies of the United States, there has been a considerable increase in automobile accidents during the first four months of 1933 as compared to the same period of last year. This information has just been received by E. M. Sundquist, president of the Insurance Exchange of Orange county.

Approximately 7500 deaths occurred during the period stated which is nearly 10 per cent lower than last year but statistics show that new car registration have been off even more than this percentage.

Fatal mishaps of automobiles with faulty brakes has increased nearly 29 per cent. Bad tires have been the cause of an increase of 33 per cent; poor illumination has caused an increase of nearly 60 per cent; and faulty steering mechanisms have been the cause of a 25 per cent increase. In other words, owners have been letting the up-keep of their cars go trusting to luck to get by, Sundquist says.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG -- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON By George Durne

ON AGAIN

The next thirty days will hand President Roosevelt a supreme test of his popularity.

Having blanketed all industry with a code of administration fashioning, the Executive must see that it fits—particularly around the edges where those damp drafts filter in. As a means of tucking up all reluctant industrial babies the powers that be have determined on a bold experiment. They are going to try to supply wartime psychology to the situation. Before a fortnight has elapsed you'll think you were back in the days of '17 buying Liberty Bonds and going without sugar on Wednesdays.

From the way things are lining up inside observers are willing to bet the Roosevelt regime will crash through for a touchdown again.

SHOPPING

General Johnson, down at NRA, has appealed to the patriotism of Washington newspapermen to help put the job over. He says it's a plain question of more men at work and better times all around.

There is every reason to believe the reporters will respond to this peacetime call to arms. The old publicity crew that handled the World War Liberty Loan drive is pulling the strings designed to start the ball.

Johnson makes no bones that everything depends on public response. Without it he and the White House are sunk.

So buy your share of the eagle of NIRA files.

LINEARS

Laurence R. Wilder, the big shipping man, is back in Washington. He hasn't made much noise yet but don't be alarmed. You'll hear from him. He's a high-pressure gentleman who gets results.

This time, Wilder appears as the guiding spirit of Gulf Industries, Inc. He wants to borrow $35,000,000 from the R. F. C. to rehabilitate the old Pensacola, Fla., shipyard.

If he gets the loan he says he'll take ship building out of the "handicraft" stage. In other words, he'll pull a Henry Ford and start mass production.

It was five years ago that Wilder made his last really spectacular visit to the Center of Things. Then he was bally-hoing for government money to build a bunch of four-day trans-Atlantic passenger liners.

He had a sumptuous hotel suite. It was always filled with members of Congress and newspaper reporters. His buffet was laden with delectables, some imported and some domestic but all hitting the spot.

Eventually, the 1923 Jones-White ship subsidy law passed. Wilder retired from the scene. He didn't get around to building any four-day boats although England and Germany did. His publicity here was worth a mint to the foreign shipbuilders in pulling subsidies from their governments.

BLACKJACK

The Wilder set-up this time is the same. His hotel suite is crowded with an endless stream of callers whose energies have been sapped by Washington humidity and who need revivifying.

These seem to be a well-padded blackjack in the background of this newest proposition to the Federal money lenders. It is whispered Wilder has potential contracts for $50,000,000 in foreign merchant marine construction that he wouldn't consider unless forced to it by an R. F. C. turnaround.

Government figures show the value of world shipping now tied up because of lack of freight runs into the hundred millions.

GATTY

Since Wiley Post has been making page one aviation history of late your thoughts may cast back to his partner on that 1931 flight around the world, Harold Gatty the navigator.

Gatty, with his clever wife and three children, is living here in Washington where he is helping the Army Air Service perfect some new gadget.

An Australian by birth, he has many months since taken out naturalization papers. His hobby is motor cruising. The broad Potosi appealed particularly to him as an anchoring spot for a nice little cabin cruiser.

Alas, he ran afoul of a law which says no "alien" may own a boat more than 20 feet in length.

NOTES

There is no shortage in industrial codes around Washington these days. A perfect stranger will hail you on the street and pull one out of his hip pocket. Up in the expensive hotel suites the "Do Not Disturb" signs have been hung out and they are being produced in quantity lots. The bellboys are even bringing a code along with cracked ice and ginger ale. Over at Fort Meyer the Army's swanky cavalry station, they found a $2 bill dated 1819 the other day while searching old post records. It's a question of a reaction was when and not whether. Now that it has come local experts agree that it was healthy—poor consolation for the shorn lambs. Speculative hysteria needed ice on its head. There is a much better chance now for rational integration between business and the market. If the public does not take the sag too seriously it will not hamper real recovery.

NEW YORK By James McMullin

PURGE

The Stock Exchange itself prescribes a pill last week to cool the brows of feverish bulls. The doctors meant it to be a gentle sedative.

For several weeks Exchange authorities have been worried about the public's shoeing optimism and the growth of professional pools. They knew that Washington turned a suspicious eye on soaring prices. In fact they kept getting unofficial inquiries from high quarters as to why the Sam Hill they didn't do something to tone down the excitement. They finally decided they had better act.

A sleeping powder for the alcohol jumps seemed likely to help without disturbing the rest of the market. It took the form of an unofficial suggestion to brokers that they hoist the margin ante on alcohol issues sharply.

An unofficial suggestion from the big shots of the Exchange is tantamount to an order signed by Mussolini. The brokers complied. All the authorities intended their medicine to do was to check exuberant buying on capital of a dime plus hope. But they forgot to tell the customers about it. Instead of ponying up more margin everybody who owned alky stocks decided it was a swell time to take profits and rushed to sell.

That sent prices into a tailspin. There were no parachute buying orders under the market. The pent-up nervousness of weeks turned into panic and the rout was on.

There is a disposition in some quarters to blame it on the banks for doubling their margin requirements on loans with alcohol stocks as collateral. That has snapped into print as an alibi for the crash. In fairness to the banks it should be said that they did not act until the key Stock Exchange houses had set the example.

HOARDS

Of course there was more to the speculative explosion than the dumping of liquor stocks. That was simply the spark to the powder keg. Insiders have known for weeks that speculative prices were way out of line with reality. The question of a reaction was when and not whether. Now that it has come local experts agree that it was healthy—poor consolation for the shorn lambs. Speculative hysteria needed ice on its head. There is a much better chance now for rational integration between business and the market. If the public does not take the sag too seriously it will not hamper real recovery.

Wall Street comments that anyway the boom did one good deed before it backfired. It brought millions of dollars out of hoarding. The banks have plenty of evidence that thousands of mattresses and socks and safe deposit vaults were emptied to buy stock certificates and grain futures.

THOMAS

Financial New York managed a very grim over Senator Thomas' agitation. They craved to ask him how you can stage a bear raid without bears. There weren't any when the party began and only a few when it ended. They compare his proposal to clamp a limit on the daily decline of stock prices to amputating an inch at a time on the theory that it hurts less that way.

One veteran broker says: "What Thomas wants is a Federal guarantee against the loss of speculative profits. We'd like that fine. But how about a law forbidding dogs to eat fleas?"

Wall Street is not making the mistake of taking Thomas too lightly. They know he represents a powerful section of public opinion. Whispers have come up that the Senate Committee investigation may reconvene in a hurry to dissect the Stock Exchange and see what makes it tick.

REGULATION

You can expect to see the Exchange go in for more strenuous self-discipline than ever before to get back in Washington's good graces. Margin requirements will be permanently stiffened as soon as it is safe. Also there will be much more rigid censorship of pool operations.

Such steps have been broached before on the inside but were dropped because of strenuous broker opposition. They would certainly cut deeply into the volume of trading and therefore into brokers' earnings. But this time the opposition will be overridden as a matter of sheer self-preservation.

Several Exchange governors are fed up with acting as buffers between brokers and traders and the government. Sentiment is growing in favor of passing the buck to Washington and letting them go ahead and regulate. This is

WHEAT CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY SOON

The wheat adjustment campaign, by which production is to be curtailed so that surplus will be eliminated, has started in California under the administrative direction of the Agricultural Extension service of the University of California. County organizations of farmers are to follow under the leadership of the farm advisors in the various counties.

As soon as the federal government reaches a decision on the reduction of the crop that must be effected, and the amount of compensation to be paid the farmers, the work in the counties will be started.

Committees of wheat growers will be organized in the principal wheat producing counties of the state and later mass meetings will be held at which growers will be told of adjustment plans of the federal government.

Although wheat growing is of limited proportions in Orange county, the crop is of immense importance in many of the counties of the interior valleys.

Professor Crocheron will make three radio talks over KFI on "The Operation of the Agricultural Adjustment Act in California," at 12:15 on Tuesday, August 1; Thursday, August 3 and Tuesday, August 8. Growers who want further information are advised to get in touch with the farm advisor's office at Santa Ana.

Bogus $5 Bill Is Passed Here

Further operations of counterfeiters in Santa Ana were revealed over the week end with the discovery of a fake $5 bill by Tony Knipe of the Bank of America.

A ring of bad money passers was broken up by federal officers several weeks after several pieces of counterfeit money had been passed in Orange county. Most of the currency had been skillfully "raised" from small denominations to $5, $10 and $20 bills.

Detective Sergeant C. A. Wolford of the Santa Ana police department is investigating the source of the $5 bill passed Saturday.

Postpone Police School Session

Scheduled to give a talk on "Arrests" at the session of the Santa Ana police school Thursday night, District Attorney S. B. Kaufman will speak at a later date because of the postponement of the meeting.

Santa Ana officers did not wish to hold a meeting during the Fiesta del Oro, so cancelled the appearance of Kaufman.

Council Notes

The McFarland Electric company was granted permission to hang an electric sign at 418 North Sycamore.

The city council was urged to attend the meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities which will be held Thursday night at Newport Beach. Since action on the county handbill ordinance will be taken, a quorum of the Santa Ana group is desired.

L. Davenport applied for the position of caretaker at the Bowers Memorial museum. The request was referred to the museum committee.

Thomas Gainsborough painted his famous "Blue Boy" to disprove the theory that blue cannot be used, successfully, as a predominating color in a portrait.

BASEBALL X-RAYS

Summer complaint has broken it in a rash in eight major league cities. Clinics are being set up to find out what's the matter with the Tigers, the Indians, the Browns and other second division teams. It is an annual ailment which sixth, seventh and eighth place teams are highly susceptible.

The fans who found out last winter all about what was the matter with baseball now learn really is something the matter with the players.

PIONEERS OF REPEAL

Grandmotherly Walter Johnson, coaching Dr. Peckinpah at Cleveland, has diagnosed the sick players' troubles as too much pay and not enough discipline. Players who weren't laying down on a job have been spending too much time staying up—with sick ends. Advance celebrations over repeal of the 18th amendment were started by the Cleveland club back in 1921, pioneering a movement you might say.

POOR DR. KILLIFER!

In St. Louis, Owner Phil Ball thinks Dr. Killifer hasn't done right by his Browns, and this may be Dr. Killifer's last year as head of the department of therapeutics. The fans long ago decided what was the matter with the Browns, however, and Mr. Ball is coming to bat a little later. Mr. Ball should call in Mayo, Crile and a few more experts and operate on the ball players. Mr. Ball has assembled by cutting 80 per cent of them right off the roster.

MAKING IT SNAPPY

Denny Shute, new British Open champion, can shoot nine holes in the 40's left-handed... Sure, that's your old friend the Boone who is leading the International league hitters with an average around .380... Bill Killefer did pretty well with the Browns, a team with only one star, and that one being Sam West.

It doesn't take a brick house to fall on Johnny Hodiapp, second baseman of the Red Sox... in spring he was told to hit or get... so he hit very, very good, leading Boston at bat with a mark around .350.

IS THERE NO JUSTICE? Here's a fresh start on boxing... recently Lou Brouillard beat Mickey Walker... and out west John Henry Lewis (colored) licked Maxie Rosenbloom... rewards for Brouillard and Lewis consisted of sitting by while Walker and Rosenbloom were signed for a big match in New York... at least they are calling it a big match.

Schmeling and Sharkey were knocked out in their last two fights... so by all means these two should be signed.

Will Duffy's suggestion that if Primo Carnera fights this winter the opponent should be Double Yell Stripling can be construed in no way as proof that Mister Duffy suddenly has lost his mind.

THAT'S CLICKING

Superlatives describing athletic feats of the ladies must be qualified, of course, but when Helen Hicks shot that 72 at Plandome, L. I., she came within a stroke of the men's record, a 71 by Bill Mehlhorn... and she fluffed a niblick shot on the last hole at that.

The ancient schoolboy Walter Hoyt still is saving games for Pittsburgh team... and you are likely to hear some more from this bird, yet, now that the Pirates are starting to use their bats again.

Lyn Lary has named his new son Lynford Lawlor Lary... the Yankees' shortstop must have gone to the movies lately.

VINES DEFEAT MAY END CAREER Stars Go To Whittier, Bid For Lead

YOUNG RETURNS TO LINEUP FOR CRUCIAL GAME

Suddenly elevated to the role of title-contender, a position they haven't known since the early days of '32, Santa Ana's scoring Stars invade Whittier tonight for the first crucial test of their renaissance.

Whittier is heading the National Night Ball league without defeat so a triumph would skyrocket the Stars into a tie for first place, to say nothing of starting them off impressively on their last long road trip of the season. Before Santa Ana returns to the Dowd August 11, it must play Whittier, Olive, Fullerton, Torrance and Anaheim on foreign soil.

The Stars catch Whittier in the throes of internal strife, dissension threatening the morale of the entire ball club. Three veterans, Catcher Pat White, Infielder Ralph Jertberg, and Outfielder "Brass" Davis, have been suspended by Manager Frank Murphy who blames them for spreading seeds of discord among younger members of the squad. Murphy has signed Catcher William Hall, Infielder E. L. Klingstein and Outfielder Louis Simone to replace White, Jertberg and Davis.

Players' Strike Threatened Meanwhile, recalcitrant members of the Whittier troupe threaten a general strike unless Murphy is removed as manager. Murphy is an appointee of the Whittier American Legion post which merely operates a franchise that is actually owned by the city of Whittier.

President George Peterkin says the league will throw its entire support behind Murphy as long as Murphy is the official manager, and that White, Davis and Jertberg would remain suspended until Murphy ordered their reinstatement.

Whether the rebellion will actually come to a head tonight nobody in Santa Ana professes to know. Manager "Eeny" Wilcox said he had heard nothing about the insurrection except what he had read, and that he would take the Santa Ana club to Whittier and have it on the field in readiness for play at 8:15. He intimated the Stars would claim a forfeit if Whittier does not have a team ready for action.

Wilbur Stinchfield will pitch for Santa Ana what will be his fourth successive start. The big Orange kid did quite well in these games which were against heavier-hitting opponents than Whittier, namely Anaheim, Westminster and Huntington Beach, and figures to have at least an even chance to win. Stinchfield lost a 11-inning game to Whittier last last month when Paul ("Chandu") Watson, the Poets' new pitcher, hit a triple against the left field wall with the bases full.

Watson to Pitch for Poets Watson, the man of many motions, is likely to start against Stinchfield. According to the best information available, neither Watson nor "String" McDonnell, Whittier's other flinger, is involved in the mutiny against Manager Murphy. Watson has the craziest delivery in night ball, and his change-of-pace completely baffled the Stars' best batsmen the last time the teams met. He fanned 13, everybody on the roster excepting Rod Ballard.

Santa Ana's lineup will be subject to rearrangement because of the return of Third Baseman Tommy Young from a two-week vacation. Tom Denney, Young's substitute, will be sent back to left field and "Chub" Sears, who has been covering that sector, will roam right field instead. Sears' hitting has been on the upgrade.

With conditions as they are, Whittier's probable lineup is a complete mystery. The "old guard" may be on hand to bury the hatchet. There may be an entire new deal. There is a remote possibility there will be no game at all.

Neva Back on Mount Huntington Beach and Torrance draw the rest of fan interest. Torrance, first-half champion, got away poorly this round but his great pitcher and hitter "Bambino" Neva, will be on the mound tonight. It is understood, Neva sprained his ankle last week and has been unable to play since.

Olive and Westminster mix at Westminster in a game that pairs two former Santa Ana managers, Bill Cole and George Lackaye. The standings:

TO PLAY IN HAWAII

HONOLULU, July 25.—(UP)—Unconfirmed reports gained wide circulation here today that Santa Clara university's football team has been signed to play two games here, one on Christmas day and one on New Year's. The Broncos would play the University of Hawaii and probably a service team, it was asserted.

Miss Babcock Is Defeated At Seabright

NEW YORK, July 25.—The American league pennant race, most bitterly contested in years, was at its competitive peak today because:

(1) Washington, a hard-hitting young club, again was in the lead; (2) Only a half-game behind, the rallying Yanks resumed play on the road, at Boston, where in June they started their worst slump in three years; (3) Both clubs were fighting to gain any advantage before meeting in a "crucial" series at Washington Thursday.

Appreciating the smouldering ill feeling between the two clubs, President William Harridge of the American league arranged to be present during the series at Washington.

Leaving no stone unturned in the Yank drive, Manager McCarthy yesterday bolstered his pitching staff by the acquisition of George Uhle. He will report to the club at Washington.

While the Yanks play two games at Boston, the Senators wind up their series in Philadelphia, before colliding in four contests at Washington.

FRANK FRISCH WELCOMES NEW CARDINAL JOB

ST. LOUIS, July 25.—(INS)—Frankie Frisch, newly appointed manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, today began laying plans for the "new deal" which is expected to place the club back in the National league pennant race.

"Like all ball players, I have been ambitious to become a manager," said Frisch, who has been captain and second baseman of the Cardinals since 1927. "I haven't had much chance to plan as yet and have no immediate changes in mind. I think, though, that if our club comes out of its present hitting slump we should get somewhere in this Frank Frisch race."

President Sam Breadon announced the appointment of Frisch, succeeding Charles E. ("Gabby") Street with the statement that change was made "in the hope that under the leadership of Frisch the Cardinals will shake off their slump and make this a winning year."

Street had directed the club since 1930 and followed a rapid succession of managers including Rogers Hornsby, Bill Southworth and Bill McKenney. He won two pennants and a world's series for the Cardinals.

Frisch came to St. Louis from the Giants in 1926. His batting average over 14 years of major league baseball is .321. "I talked things over with Breadon. 'Street has been loyal and has won two pennants and a world championship as leader of the Cardinals. But we decided that possibly a change might be for the best and 'Gabby' is stepping down and Frisch has agreed to take over management of the team. He is a great player, his baseball is sound and I hope that under his leadership the Cardinals will shake off their slump and make this a pennant winning year."

The Cardinals are now eight games behind the Giants, having descended into the second division last Saturday. Breadon several years ago adopted the policy of shifting managers whenever the team went into a protracted slump.

ROSENBLUM SEEKS $15,000 GUARANTEE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—(UP)—Lou Daro, who wants to turn from wrestling to fight promotion, had received the conditions today under which he might sign Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight titleholder, against Mickey Walker, in a title bout at Los Angeles in September.

Frank Bachman, Rosenbloom's manager, told Daro that Maxie would meet Walker with the title at stake for $15,000 guarantee or a privilege of accepting 40 per cent. If Rosenbloom kept the title, he would be willing to take the straight 40 per cent, foregoing the guarantee.

Daro said that if such a fight were staged at Wrigley field it would draw twice as well as it would in New York. Bachman said the same terms would apply if John Henry Lewis, Arizona Negro, or any one else wanted a title chance. Rosenbloom and Lewis meet for the third time in a non-title fight here Monday night. Each has won a decision.

NEW WATER QUEEN

A successor to Helene Madison as swim queen of the United States has been nominated. She is Lenore Kight of Homestead, Pa., who has been smashing water records left and right. The 21-year-old girl has her heart set on the 1936 Olympics, and she is out to break some of Helene's marks to win a berth on the squad.

Deer Season To Begin August 22 In Coast Sector

Deer season will open August 22 in California districts No. 2, 2 1/2 and 3, according to word received today by T. J. Neal, Santa Ana sporting goods merchant, from state fish and game officials. The districts largely comprise the coast range section. Previously deer-hunting began there August 1.

The duration of the season has not yet been decided by the state, but it probably will be shorter than in the past.

CITY LEAGUERS IN 4 GAMES THIS WEEK

Swinging into the second week of the Santa Ana City League's second-half season, Hoffman's Rebottomers meets Weber's baker tonight at 7 o'clock, and the First Baptist play M. E. South at 8.

One of the important games of the season is scheduled Wednesday when the leading United Presbyterian nine goes against the First National bank at 8 o'clock. The first-half champion Elks meet Bachman's garage in the curtain-raiser.

City leagues games are scheduled only Tuesday and Wednesday this week but double-headers are listed four nights next week.

MONKEY RIDERS IN COMPTON DOG RACE

The second monkey race of the summer greyhound racing meet at Compton is scheduled tonight and another record-breaking attendance is predicted by Manager Ralph Maddox. Last week approximately 15,000 persons saw the three-pound Simian jockeys pilot eight powerful greyhounds over the Futurity distance of 500 yards.

Because of the big demand, Secretary Tom W. Benner has carded eleven instead of ten races, with the first event booked to get under way promptly at 8:15.

'TRUDY' EDERLE OF SWIM FAME LIVES IN PAST

BY HENRY McLEMORE (United Press Staff Correspondent) NEW YORK, July 25.—(UP)—Gertrude Ederle is still a plump sort of a girl. Gertrude is leading a lazy life. Her papa, who has a butcher shop right here in Manhattan, makes enough money that "Trudy" doesn't need to worry about her larders and penates.

You read about Gertrude in the public print these days, when fancy swimming is in the news. The stories are all the same. They tell about how she sits alone, dark glasses over her eyes. They say she is unnoticed. That she is deaf and that her heart is bad because of her heroic crossing of the English channel. All the sports writers have been shedding tears for "Trudy." And Gertrude Ederle has been taking it. But not liking it.

She Still Smiles We found her at the National Swimming championships at Jones Beach, Alone. With dark glasses. A little deaf, if you please. But, if you please, with a smile a foot wide.

We had been reaching these thresholds. We had been picturing a forlorn and forgotten "Trudy." And so, we walked up to her, placed a motherly hand on her shoulder, and in accents disconsolate, and soothing, as though addressing a condemned murderer, said: "Hello, Gertrude."

"Lord have mercy!" she exclaimed. "Another sad sister."

Then it came out, "Trudy" sat there and told us how she's perfectly happy. And she told us why. Listen:

Ovation Was Worth It "It's all so silly, the way they're talking about me. Do I look sick? Blue? Why should I? Did you see that demonstration they gave to General Balbo Saturday? Well, they gave me one like that. They gave me the biggest demonstration on lower Broadway that has ever been given a girl, and that has been given to but two men—Lindbergh and General Balbo."

"Don't you think that will always be with me? That triumphal march up to the city hall? Millions were there cheering. It was the most tremendous thing that could happen to a girl. It still leaves me limp to think about it."

"Should I have expected that they would give me such a demonstration every day the rest of my life? Certainly not! I swam the English channel and was the first girl to do it. They paid me plenty, in that New York reception. "So what if they have forgotten me! I haven't forgotten them!"

CLAIM TENNIS SYSTEM SPOILS YOUNG PLAYERS

BY DAVIS J. WALSH NEW YORK, July 25.—(INS)—"Ellsworth Vines, physically and nervously ill because of his boyish seriousness..."

So runs a non-partisan, eyewitness account of what took place there in the hot, white sun of Auteuil Sunday afternoon when a frail, high-strung young American pitched forward on his face and lay still, to end the inter-zone Davis Cup final with England.

The collapse, it seems, was inevitable. He'd already given more than he had.

That much, notably about the "boyish seriousness," may be hearsay. But this much is clear: There ought to be a law.

Nothing can justify the system of lawn tennis in America for what it is doing to impressionable, sometimes unstable young men who are unfortunate enough to have the ability to attract its attention. This is no more true of what it did to Vines Sunday, than what it is doing and will do to hundreds of others from middle class homes who suddenly find themselves leading a life of ease and refinement at exclusive clubs.

Somewhere about the age of thirty, they are given every chance to recover, tennis no longer being interested in them either as competitors or human beings. And by that time, neither is life.

These, roughly speaking, are the "tennis bums" about whom George Lott once spoke so feelingly in announcing that henceforth he was through. But George, it seems, was only deluding himself, he wasn't through then and he isn't yet. Like a great many others, he's apparently waiting for tennis to make his decision for him, which it will do very abruptly in a few years.

As for Vines, the worst that can be said is that the game made a man of him before his time. It may even have made an old man of him. When he collapsed the other day at Roland Garros stadium, not a few people felt that he might never be the same again. This possibility would be humorous if it wasn't a little tragic. The man isn't quite 22.

They say he meant to turn professional in a few months if he kept his world's championship intact at Wimbledon and in the Davis Cup matches and something of this sort may have preyed on his mind. But I doubt if this was comparable to strain he felt in connection with the knowledge that a nation of the Americans were looking to him to bring back the Davis Cup, strictly as an individual.

Hardly more than a boy, he must have been keyed to a highly emotional pitch, for, by the very nature of things, tennis is an emotional game. This naturally works both ways against any invading competitor at Auteuil, with its violent atmosphere and unfamiliar surface. That is, an emotional man cannot play his best tennis at Auteuil; whereas, a stolid man cannot play really good tennis anywhere.

Vines himself attributes his collapse to the fact that he sat out in the sun too long watching the other match, which is about what a boy would do. But it is typical of tennis and its air of manipulating puppets that it was grown men in charge of the team that let him do it.

News Of Orange County Communities

C. OF C. WILL SUPPORT PLAN FOR NEW ROAD

COSTA MESA, July 25.—Board of directors of the chamber of commerce went on record last night, as they met in the Spencer building at their regular monthly meeting, as giving their special support to the effort that is being made at this time toward completing the Fullerton-Anaheim-Harbor road which when completed will connect the harbor district with the back country of Orange county with a short cut.

The road at present is known as Fairview avenue in the Costa Mesa district, and the Buero road and Palm street north of the Santa Ana river. It was stated at the meeting that the county supervisors have included in their next year's budget an amount sufficient to build a bridge across the river at the point where the road will cross.

Other movements that the directors pledged their support to were the improvement of Newport harbor and the local fire department. The chamber secretary was instructed to keep in close touch with neighbor recovery not to the directors on the same.

Leroy Anderson, president of the body, was in charge of the gathering.

Several outside citizens sat in at the meeting.

BEACH COUPLE TO RETURN HOME SOON

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 25.—Miss Orpha DeBusk of Wintersburg and Clarence Double of Huntington Beach who were married Friday at Yuma, Ariz., will enjoy a honeymoon trip to Northern California, points and will be at home to their friends in this city within the next two weeks.

The groom is the circulation manager of the Los Angeles Times in Huntington Beach and the bride is a popular society girl and church worker of Wintersburg. They attended high school together here and their wedding was expected by their many friends.

The couple were the victims of an imbecile bandit or dope fiend who kidnaped them several months ago in this city. After traveling around for hours the bandit released the couple, ordering Double from the car first and a few hours later releasing Miss DeBusk unharmed. The bandit was identified as figuring in the holdup of several service stations in Orange county the night of the kidnapping, and wanted the couple and their auto as a foil to escape pursuing officers.

Evangelist In Talk At Church

WINTERSBURG, July 25.—The Rev. Ted Evans who is well known in Orange county, having conducted many evangelistic meetings for a number of years past, was the speaker Sunday morning at the Wintersburg Methodist church. Mr. Evans is now pastor of a church at Douglas, Ariz.

The Summer Vacation Bible school will take over the church services on next Sunday evening. There will be declamations, hand work will be shown and certificates will be presented pupils for their work during the two weeks of session which closes Friday evening.

OFFICE OF DENTIST AT BEACH ROBBED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 25.—The office of Dr. P. E. Sheehan, dentist, were robbed over the week end, the thieves getting several hundred dollars worth of dentist gold. The robbery was discovered by Dr. Sheehan when he opened his offices Monday morning, he reported to the police.

This is the first burglary to occur in the city for years. The city employs a night auto patrol that covers the city and off field throughout the night and there is a patrolman watch system in the business district.

Dr. Sheehan's offices are in the second story of the old Home State bank building and the burglary could have occurred Sunday afternoon without the burglar attracting any notice by entering the stairway to the offices.

MISSIONS GROUP FETED AT HOME

LA HABRA, July 25.—Mrs. R. J. Livingston, entertained members of the missionary society of the Church of Christ, at her home on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. J. M. Cantwell, former La Habra was a visitor and gave the lesson study in Africa.

During the business session it was voted to give a certain amount to Miss Grace Madden, missionary, who expects to leave soon for her work in Japan. She will join her people who are already engaged in the mission work there.

Attending this meeting were Mrs. J. Snaveley, Mrs. G. L. Gordon, Mrs. Charles Moore, Mrs. E. Keith, Mrs. Robert Peary, Mrs. R. M. Abbott, Mrs. Viola Threlkeld and Mrs. S. L. McGregor.

Birthday Of Boy Honored At Party

BUENA PARK, July 25.—Fred McKenzie celebrated his tenth birthday, Friday, at his home on Tenth street, Friday when a group of his playmates gathered to celebrate the event. A bicycle presented by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McKenzie proved the interesting event of the afternoon. Out of door games were enjoyed by all until a late hour when the guests were served with ice cream and cake and punch by the honoree's mother.

Those present were Charles Piper and Mary Jean Block of Montebello, Robert and Ray Rodabaugh, Patty Brosnan, Cecil Kinney, Jimmie Osborne, Gayland Foster, Virgil Anglin, Gusie Von Popeaghem, A. D. Labelle, Merle Hastings and Carrie Mae and Thelma McKenzie, the honoree and Mrs. Anna Ruth McKenzie all of Buena Park.

Smeltzer Man Is Confined To Home

SMELTZER, July 25.—Friends of J. A. Murdy Jr., prominent local rancher are sorry to learn he is confined at his home to a darkened room, owing to an eye affliction which came upon him quite suddenly. Murdy, who was to take charge of the Lima Bean Association meeting as chairman, Saturday, was unable to attend and Vernon Hill, chairman for last year, substituted for him.

TOURNAMENT OF BADMINTON IS HELD AT BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, July 25.—Pasadena and San Marino society was well represented in the crowd that saw Bob Ford, state badminton champion, win the singles championship of the Laguna Beach Badminton club, in the first annual open tournament staged by the local organization. He defeated Bill Joyce, state doubles champion, in a hotly contested match, 15-10, 12-15, 15-10. Both players were generously applauded.

Lorna Macdonnell showed lots of class in defeating Mrs. Otis Blackburn, 15-5, 15-8, in the women's singles. Paired with Grace Piper, she had a harder time in winning the women's doubles from Mrs. Buckingham and Mrs. Bill Joyce, 15-13, 9-15, 15-13. The numerous sensational gets and kills on both sides earned hearty applause, but Miss Macdonnell dominated the play throughout the match.

Major Hendy and Leroy (Skeeter) Erickson put up a stiff battle in the men's doubles, but were outclassed by Bill Joyce and Gordon Cronkrite, who won, 15-10, 11-15, 15-9. A "blind spot" on the west side of the court gave a deal of trouble to Erickson and some to Hendy. The former missed the bird on several apparently easy kills and Hendy a couple of times. Joyce dominated the play for the winning side.

Bob Ford and Gay Wright defeated Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham in the mixed doubles, 15-10, 12-15, 15-10, in an interesting match. Buckingham was a finalist in the state mixed doubles in the last tournament.

The tournament was staged by Erickson and Clarence U. Young for the Laguna Beach Badminton club.

CASH DEAL MADE FOR OIL LOTS IN BEACH FIELD AS WELL DRILLING INCREASES

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 25.—Al Burkett, popular and successful independent oil operator in the Huntington Beach field, and resident of Santa Ana, walked into the offices of the Pacific Electric Railway company and Associated Oil company at Sixth and Main streets, Los Angeles, and laid down $25,000 for two lots at the corner of Twentieth and Walnut, it was learned today.

This is the highest price ever paid for two lots in the Huntington Beach town lot field. The lots are 11 1/4 feet deep. The deal is regarded as a snap by oil operators because a steel derrick, a rotary rig and boilers are included in the deal.

While it was the highest price paid for a two-lot drill site, the six lot drill site owned by the Associated Oil and Pacific Electric railway, sold three weeks ago for $17,500 or nearly $20,000 for each 25-foot lot in the drill site. But this site contained a well producing 100 barrels a day. In the hey-day of the oil industry this well would have brought $100,000 without the lots.

Burkett is superintendent of the Ventura Oil company and is also superintendent of the Anacapa Oil company. He is regarded as a capable oil man and shrewd buyer. He is re-deepening the well he purchased and also two other wells in the town lot field and is associated with Los Angeles capital.

The Hamilton Oil company's Dick Lewis well at Twenty-second and Walnut came in yesterday and is said to be producing between 3000 and 5000 barrels a day. The well is not settled as to production, but will be given a test today. There is plenty of gas. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis moved their house from the lot.

The bill for drilling the tidelands has been passed by the house and now goes before the senate. Governor Ralph vetoed a similar measure two years ago, but it is said this measure grants the state an interest in the royalty and meets the governor's approval.

PLANS STARTED TO GET NAVAL BASE AT BEACH

SEAL BEACH, July 25.—An intensive campaign for the purpose of locating a federal naval base in the lowlands of Anaheim Bay in both Seal Beach and Sunset Beach is to be conducted by a special committee of Orange county citizens with T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach as the chairman. Others of the committee are W. D. Miller of Seal Beach, George W. Bush of Sunset Beach, Hugh T. O'Connell of Los Alamitos, and Law H. Wallace of Newport Beach.

The committee was appointed at the last meeting of the Orange County Coast association held at Huntington Beach a week ago; the appointment followed a talk on the subject by T. B. Talbert in which he stressed the fact that this site is more suitable for a naval base than any other on the Pacific coast. He also stated that both Los Angeles and Long Beach look with favor upon the proposition and that it is endorsed by high navy officials.

The committee will begin work at once to interest high government officials, and will secure the endorsement of the site from various Southern California cities.

The proposition of an Anaheim bay naval base was first broached by Commander J. F. Daniels, U. S. naval officer, retired, in an address before the Lions club at Orange a few weeks ago.

WARN you, DeVos, those two girls will give you something to think about."

The colloquialism seemed to puzzle the other.

"To think about? But I assure you they have already."

Tom laughed. "I mean they put up a stiff game that keeps any man on the move," he said.

"Ah! well—as it happens I have been so fortunate as to cross reeds with some of your famous American tennis players when they were in Europe," answered DeVos suavely. "I shall do my best to give Miss Alger and her partner an interesting battle. You play, Mrs. Averill?"

"I'm not in Fleur's class," laughed Linda. She saw Mr. Statlander bearing down on Tom and imperceptibly signaled to her husband to go with him. "Golf's more my game but even there I'm no champion. Fleur can beat me any day. But then she does everything well."

"Ah, yes! The Belgian's interest quickened as the conversation veered toward their neighbor. "She is what you call the all-around good sport, is it not?"

"She's marvelous on any game she tries." Linda was sure he did not catch her equivocation; to his ear the shades of meaning in that word "sport" would be quite unperceived. "Coming, Tom?"

They had started toward the terrace when she saw that her other guest had disappeared.

"No—you go on out. Statlander's gone upstairs for his infernal figures and reports and we'd better stay indoors since there are papers to handle. We'll come out later when the business talk is over. How soon will you be wanting to start, DeVos?"

"Not for another hour or more," He consulted his wrist watch. "You were saying, Mrs. Averill?"

"Only that Fleur's a very clever person," she answered, disposing herself comfortably in the deep lawn chair. "But you've probably found that out for yourself."

She wondered if they were destined all ways to talk about the glittering Fleur. Of course she herself was not at all inclined to flirt yet, after all, it was a bit exasperating that none of the charm to which she had so instantly responded was exerted in her direction. Men did not ordinarily dismiss her with the perfunctory courtesy he had shown since the night of the dance, and she found herself resenting it acutely.

"Have I reached the age when confidences are to be my conversational lot?" she thought. "It's obvious I can't vamp a person who doesn't know I have any features other than my ears. Well—it's my job to get everything I can from the creature and Fleur seems to be the line to follow to make him talk. "You will be back after tennis of course to change?" It was part a statement, part a question.

"Yes, Miss Alger has invited us to remain at the club after the game. Then she will drive us both back here, I understand."

"Marvin isn't going to Fleur's, I take it?"

"I believe I am the only one outside of Miss Stoner's own party," He answered somewhat stiffly and she repressed a grin as she remembered that he had been substituted for a delinquent guest—not, she was honest enough to admit to herself, that Fleur wasn't glad of the opportunity. "I am to meet them at their home so we shall all leave together for the restaurant."

"It isn't a restaurant. It's a road house. That is, it has a restaurant of course—well, there's just no European equivalent for it, I imagine. But you'll discover what it's like when the time comes."

"You are sure that this will not inconvenience you, Mrs. Averill? I know you could not participate in social affairs but Miss Stoner was so kind."

"It's quite all right with me," she assured him and did not add the fact that Cousin Amos or no Cousin Amos, she would not have been invited to the gathering. "I just wanted to know about what time you'll leave so I can arrange to get you over there. If you stop at the club and come home to dress you'll probably leave here about the time we are through with dinner. I've put it quite early tonight for the benefit of my girls in the kitchen so that works out very nicely."

"I'm sorry if I have made plans that cause you trouble—" he began.

"Not at all!" She managed to speak more cordially. Even if Fleur's high-handed way of turning everything to her own advantage did irritate Linda she need not convey her annoyance to this innocent guest. "I want you to enjoy yourself, and we've not been able to do much. But not having a chauffeur, I have to see to it that one of us is free to get you to any engagements you may have made."

"Might I suggest—" his tone was full of deference, of almost exaggerated consideration but suddenly she felt that he was commanding rather than suggesting. "Miss Stoner has said it would be no inconvenience to her to send her car for me this evening."

"What nonsense!" Linda could not help answering sharply. The condescending gesture was so like Fleur! "It's no bother to drive you to a neighbor's house! Of course Fleur needn't send for you. Both the sedan and the roadster—"

As an idea struck her she stopped and, turning, caught the look of displeasure on his face. To his surprise—and somewhat to her own—she suddenly laughed with unabashed, whole-hearted amusement. "Why, Mr. DeVos—I believe you're ashamed to arrive there in either of our cars! Too bad we haven't one like Fleur's—but I'll be after dark and we can sneak you up to the door without anyone seeing you!"

Her thrust had been a sure one. He looked at once startled and sheepish and then, as he realized how he had betrayed himself, furiously angry.

"I would not dream of criticising your motor, Mrs. Averill. Any arrangement you make will be perfectly satisfactory to me," he replied stiffly. She was silent but the quiver of her lips showed she was by no means silenced and her eyes, meeting the haughty rebuke in his, were mocking and unconvinced. "If you will excuse me I must go upstairs now. I think I heard the motor bringing Mr. Pratt some moments ago and he will be ready and waiting for me."

"Go right ahead!" Linda permitted gracefully. "Here's Mr. Shaughnessy. I think he's coming to tell you Marvin has arrived but he can remain to keep me company."

She watched the stiff, military carriage of the retreating back and chuckled again at the disapproval and annoyance it conveyed.

"I've just insulted Mr. DeVos," she confided to the Irishman who sank uninvited into the chair beside her. "I suppose it was terrible of me but somehow I don't feel a bit ashamed."

"A little insulting would be good for that lad," answered the other negligently.

NEWCOM URGES PLANTING OF GARDENS NOW

BY R. B. NEWCOM
We have again come to that time of year when the enthusiasm of the average gardener is at a low ebb. Everyone "gets the bug" for gardening in the spring time—the real gardener never loses it in California, especially here in Orange county. There is no real reason why the Orange county garden should go through a useless, dormant period. Something can be grown all the year round. Nowhere else in America can this be done.

Vegetable Gardens
Let us recount the things that can be seasonably planted these next 30 days. First, in utility if not in beauty, is the vegetable garden. We can now plant early beets and beans, broccoli, brussels sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, carrots, corn, cucumber, endive, kale, kohlrabi, leek, mustard, onion, parsley, radish, spinach, chard, turnips, both early and late squash and the plants of the late tomatoes.

Second—That perpetual source of joy, the flower garden. What can we do in planting flower seeds within the next 30 days? We can plant Calendula marigolds (the beautiful radio for instance), centaureas like bachelor's button and the beautiful sweet sultans, the early flowering cosmos, gypsophylla or "baby's breath," the French marigolds, the nasturtiums, phlox, salpiglossis, zinnias, and best of all, let's get busy with the early flowering winter blooming sweet peas.

I wonder if we all realize how immensely popular sweet peas are. I wonder if we all realize that if we plant the seed in early August that we can have practically seven months of the daintiest sweet pea blooms imaginable. They just bloom and bloom until next July's sun kills them. Oftentimes they will be in blossom by Thanksgiving. And, by the way, while we're talking about sweet peas, let's be careful about the seed we buy; and let's not put any fertilizer on them to speak of, until the blooms start coming. You know sweet peas are hungry feeders; and if we fertilize too heavily before blossom time they are inclined to run all to vine.

While we are on the subject of flower seeds it would be well to mention that this is a good time to sow in seed flats such flowers as aquilegia, carnation, Canterbury bells, coreopsis, cineraria, delphinium, digitalis, forget-me-nots, gaillardias, geraniums, hollyhock, pansy, pettstemon, perennial poppy, phlox, shasta daisy, snapdragon, stocks, verbenas, viola and wallflowers. There's a lot of joy in that bunch—even if you don't have the best of luck.

Lawn Needs Food

Third in this discussion of fall gardens—but most important of all—is the fall and winter lawn. There is nothing that adds to the appearance of your home more than a well kept, dark green lawn. There is not a prettier picture on God's footstool than that of a happy, barefoot child romping over fresh green sod. I have often said that a beautiful lawn about a home will make "a haven out of a hovel." But how to keep this lawn nice and fresh and green? That is the question. By the first of August grass has practically exhausted the plant foods in the soil. The hot sun is devastating and the grass goes thin and brown and neglected looking. Heavy watering doesn't seem to help much but run up the water bill. The grass simply is crying for food. Give it. Now. Any good commercial plant food like Vigoro or blood meal will do the business. You won't forget the results—they are so satisfactory. Dairy and barnyard manures are seldom used any more on good lawns, and never in the fall time. They are too slow in their action, taking months for beneficial results; and they are simply alive with such weed pests as crab grass and bur clover. People with barefoot children should never use barnyard on their lawns on account of the deadly tetanus germ—the germ that causes lock jaw.

These three things—the vegetable garden, the flower garden and the lawn—are indeed a blessed trinity to any home. Can you really visualize any perfect home without them? I believe not. Let us all work for them. Let us all have them. Having them we will learn to more deeply appreciate the incomparable advantages of living in Golden California.

throughout the United States is preparing for a renewed intensive campaign for members in this national safety drive, Orval Lyon, B. F. Goodrich Company dealer at Santa Ana declared today.

Created to enlist motorists in a campaign for improved highway safety the Silvertown League has won support all over the country, Mr. Lyon said.

"Along with this campaign for greater safety, the Goodrich company, in its new Safety Silvertown, has created the safest tire ever built, we believe," asserted Mr. Lyon. "It has been produced to meet new demands placed on tires by higher driving speeds, quicker brake action, oil-filmed roads, congested traffic and smaller wheels. "So impressed was the public with this new Safety Silvertown that 25.9 per cent more of them were sold in January and February this year than in the same two months of 1931.

The kangaroo was named through a misunderstanding. In 1770 Captain Cook asked a native the name of the animal and the native replied, "kan ga roo," meaning "I don't understand." Cook thought it was the name of the animal.

DIRECTORS TO BE NOMINATED BY MERCHANTS

A committee to nominate directors to serve on the new board that comes into office August 15 was appointed by Walter Swannberger, president of the Santa Ana Merchants' association, at yesterday's meeting at Ketter's cafe.

The following were named: James N. Harding, chairman; J. G. Hall, Claude J. McDowell, G. S. Suddaby, Don Jerome, Milton Foster and Gilbert P. Campbell.

Chairman Harding announced that he would call a committee meeting within a few days to prepare a list of candidates to be submitted to the members at their next election.

Discussion was held on the Fiesta del Oro, which opens for three days with a street breakfast Thursday.

The Chinese li, a measure of length, is the equivalent of one one-hundredth of a day's walk; on the level this slightly exceeds one-third of an English mile, but in hilly country it might be as little as one-eighth of a mile.

EARLY HISTORY OF S. A. FIRE DEPARTMENT IS RECALLED AS CHIEF OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY

With the celebration this week of John Luxembourg's 15th year as fire chief and 26th year in the Santa Ana fire department, pioneers of Santa Ana were recalling that the first volunteer fire brigade in the city was organized 50 years ago.

The history of Santa Ana has been reflected in the fire department and is graphically evident in a treasured old scrapbook, now the property of Chief Luxembourg. The battered ledger, kept from 1899 until 1913 by George Peters, long a secretary in the department, tells of fires, celebrations, city council meetings and other interesting events that took place in Santa Ana.

When the present fire chief came to Santa Ana in 1894, the town was a typical small country village. The fire department, established years before, boasted of a small chemical engine, a wardrobe of red shirts and black hats and 35 volunteers. The engine house was located on Sycamore street between Third and Fourth streets.

Joined In 1908 Luxembourg, a machine blacksmith, joined the department in 1908 as a volunteer, at which time there were three paid men and a horse drawn engine. On July 27, 1918, he succeeded Mont Jackson as chief and took over the management of four paid firemen, about 25 volunteers and two white trucks. The department had been motorized in 1915 and one of the original trucks is still in the service.

Fifteen years after his appointment as fire chief, Luxembourg now has 34 paid men, six pieces of motorized apparatus, 12 volunteers, 9000 feet of hose and four fire stations.

Santa Ana's fire department really originated in the office of Judge George E. Freeman on May 25, 1883. This office was located near the site of the present Fox West Coast theater and was just across the alley from the First National bank. A public meeting had been held several days previous to May 25 to organize a fire department.

First Fire Board The first board of the fire commissioners had W. H. Spurgeon as president and Judge Freeman as secretary. At an election on June 7, the vote was 65 to 31 in favor of having a department and a tax of 90 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation was levied which netted $2000.

The first expenditure was for a double cylinder chemical engine, hooks and ladders and the building of an engine house on Sycamore street between Third and Fourth streets. The apparatus was painted a bright red and the large hats and red shirts trimmed with blue.

On November 1, 1883, Capt. C. A. Berry was chosen chief, engineer and enrolled the following as firemen: D. C. Lyon, Henry Jessor, C. F. McDowell, C. W. Potter, E. W. Straw, J. R. Conlee, H. F. Stafford, Adam Forster, C. E. Foreman, H. C. Jones, T. G. Ford, R. J. Andrews, John Bressler, Julius Reinhaus, John Tilley, J. P. Brown, William Bush, R. C. Cagle, Ed. Waite, C. F. Rohrer, S. P. Shibley, Edgar Edwards, C. E. Grouard, J. W. Earhart, J. C. Ford, R. Simpson, J. R. Trague, S. McEathron, B. B. Greenleaf, John Sackman, W. H. Spurgeon, George Peters, George Schirm and George E. Freeman.

CITY COUNCIL IN DISCUSSION OF HALL SITE

Definite decision of the Santa Ana city council on whether or not to seek federal funds for a new city hall was still lacking today, although a spirited discussion on the matter enlivened the meeting last night.

Just Markel, speaking before the council as a member of the committee appointed by the parks and playgrounds committee of the chamber of commerce, bitterly protested the use of Birch park for any building, either library or city hall. He said that a civil center should be established near the courthouse and that his personal preference for a site would be the present library grounds at Fifth and Sycamore with the addition of a strip on the rear of the property.

Councilman A. E. LeGaye asked Markel how the property would be acquired and was told the city could trade property at Third and Main streets. When asked who owned the ground behind the library, Markel said he believed it was Oliver Halsell, of the Santa Land company.

LeGaye, although admitting that the Birch park deeds prohibited the building of a city hall there, offered to show Markel how such a project, as well as a new city park, could be financed without cost to the taxpayers.

Earlier in the meeting, the advisability of building a city hall at this time was discussed, as well as how the cost would be paid back to the government. It was definitely announced that 30 per cent of the price would be given to the city and that only 70 per cent would have to be paid. Of this amount 75 per cent is to be spent on labor and 25 per cent on material.

Mayor Paul Witmer also declared that there was an alternative means of building the new city hall, if the council wished to accept it. The city could deed property to the government and then assign a 20-year lease on the building, which would be erected by the government. The rent for the building would pay back the cost over 20 years and accomplish the same result as if the city built the new structure, he said.

It was the sentiment of the council that an election should be called to decide whether the taxpayers will agree to the new city hall and where it shall be built.

HOLD CITRUS INSTITUTE AT CORONA FRIDAY

The annual Southern California citrus growers' summer institute will be held at Corona next Friday, according to announcement from the farm advisors' office. The sessions will be held in the auditorium of the Corona high school, beginning at 9:30 o'clock and continue through the day.

The program committee, headed by N. C. Kelley, chairman of the Citrus department of the California Farm Bureau federation, has arranged several subjects for discussion that will be of particular interest to citrus growers at this time, relating to the recent Agricultural Recovery Act and citrus stabilization.

The credit situation of the citrus grower and a progress report of the inter-state citrus conference now being held at Washington will be featured on the program. Holmes Bishop, chairman of the Citrus department of the Orange County Farm Bureau, says that this meeting will afford a splendid opportunity for each citrus grower to bring himself up to date on the economic questions of the day in the citrus industry.

The detailed program follows: 9:30 a. m. address of welcome, Mayor Huchings; response, farm bureau, Peter T. Carter, president; citrus industry, D. S. Bell, director, Riverside; "The National Recovery Act" and "State Legislation," R. W. Blackburn, president, California Farm Bureau federation; "Bearing of Southern California Water Resources on Citrus Credits," W. S. Rosecrans, Los Angeles, member Southern California Economic council, and chairman Agricultural committee, Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce; "Credit Basis of California Citrus Groves - A Grower's Viewpoint," R. A. Wheatley, Index Orchards, Inc., La Habra.

1:30 p. m., "The Citrus Producing Areas of the United States - Interests Coordinate," Robert W. Hodgson, assistant director, College of Agriculture, University of California at Los Angeles. "The California Agricultural Credit Committee - Southern Division" and "The Washington Citrus Conference - Summary to Date," F. O. Walschlaeger, Los Angeles, secretary California Citrus league and member of Southern California Economic council; "The Agricultural Credit Administration" and "Federal Loans - Rules and Regulations," George S. Mann, Los Angeles, agent of the United States Farm Loan commissioner.

MEYERS GRANTED TAXICAB PERMIT

Richard Meyers, previously denied permission to operate the Broadway Cab company at 305 North Broadway, entered a new application at the city council meeting last night and had it granted after considerable discussion over the report of the taxi committee.

Councilman A. C. Hasenjaeger maintained that Meyers and several other applicants for taxi businesses had been denied permits in recent months and saw no reason to open another concern. Councilman E. G. Warner and City Attorney Clyde Downing, other members of the committee, were in favor of granting the permit and on a roll call vote, Hasenjaeger was the only one to vote no.

Meyers operated a taxi business in Santa Ana from 1928 to 1930 and will open his business, with one machine. He will operate under the same regulations and zone prices as other taxicab companies.

Council Refuses Permits On Beer

Concessions near the Santa Ana Municipal bowl will not be allowed to sell beer during the Fiesta del Oro, it was decided by the city council last night.

Having previously denied permission to sell beer in the bowl and on other public property, the application of William Roher, 1066 French street, to sell beer in a stand at Sixth and Flower streets, was denied.

C. E. See, operator of a service station at Santa Ana boulevard and Chapman avenue, was given a permit to conduct an off-sale business and J. E. Vincent, 204 North Broadway, was granted an on sale and wholesale permit.

NEW SWEEPER AUTHORIZED BY CITY COUNCIL

Street sweeping in Santa Ana will be done with a new motor sweeper within a month, following the decision of the city council last night to advertise for bids on the new machine.

City Engineer J. L. McBride told the council yesterday afternoon that an emergency existed regarding street sweeping, since the temporary system now in use was expected to break down at any time. An old discarded sweeper is being pressed into service because the regular vehicle was wrecked several weeks ago when struck by a large truck and trailer on Santa Ana boulevard.

Only two bids will be received by the council because the Austin and Elgin machines are the only ones on the market. Representatives of both companies have been in Santa Ana for the past week. Bids can be received within 14 days and it will take about two weeks to ship the machine from the east.

About half of the purchase price of the new machine will be paid from the insurance adjustment of $3000 received on the wrecked sweeper. It is the plan of the council to have the wrecked machine fixed up by the street department and city employees in order to provide a utility sweeper.

Permit For New Building Denied

Permission to erect a professional building on the southwest corner of Tenth and Broadway was denied by the city council last night on the recommendation of the planning commission.

The application was entered last week by C. H. Rawlings, representing Shipkey and Pearson, contractors. There is one professional building on the opposite corner and the contractors wished to build one of similar construction.

Expect Crowd At Veterans' Picnic Wednesday Night

A large crowd is expected to attend the annual picnic of the Disabled American Veterans, will be a guest, and will make a report on the national convention held in Cincinnati recently.

The chapter and auxiliary will furnish coffee, sugar and cream. Commander Pickard announces there will be entertainment and a sports program for the young people.

The next regular meeting will be held at Getty hall at 8 p. m. July 26.

DOG LICENSE ORDINANCE IS GIVEN READING

Enforcement of the dog license ordinance came under discussion at the city council meeting last night with the result that first reading of an amendment to the ordinance was given by City Attorney Clyde Downing.

The new law will reduce the dog license tax from $2 to $1 and provides that if the payment is not made within a certain time limit, the price will be raised to $2. Some type of penalty, probably the impounding of the dog, will be inserted next week to provide for violation of the law.

More than 150 people were bitten by dogs in the city last year and few dog owners have taken the trouble to renew or take out new dog licenses. It was stated. With the passing of the amended ordinance, the poundmaster will be ordered to start at once in catching stray dogs found without licenses.

BEAN GROWERS AND FAMILIES STATE PICNIC

Over 300 bean growers and their families from Orange county attended the second annual picnic of the Bean Growers' department of the Orange County Farm Bureau at Irvine park recently.

R. J. McFadden, president of the local county organization, outlined the activities of the several committees under his direction as they affect the bean grower. Secretary E. D. Flaherty described the state and national farm bureau activities and the part they have played in outlining the "New Deal."

R. L. Churchill, manager of the California Lima Bean association, outlined the present market situation of lima beans, and sounded an optimistic note for the marketing of the 1933 crop. Farm Advisor Harold E. Wahlberg stressed the need for a larger number of co-operators for the cost of production studies on lima beans for the coming year. This cost study has been conducted for several years by the farm advisor's office and has been of value in determining tariff rates and in supplying data with regard to the industry and its producing capacity.

Following the program the bean growers of the Smeltzer area defeated the growers from the remainder of the county in a baseball game, under the direction of Fred Pope.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Luncheon
Large vegetable salad:
Shredded lettuce
6 radishes, sliced
Large tomato, sliced
2 tbsps. green peas
2 hard boiled eggs, diced
2 tbsps. buttermilk
Mayonnaise
1 square rye-krisp, no butter
Clear tea, no sugar.
Calory total...$55.
Unless you are having a hard time to keep down weight, let's give the mineral oil salad dressing a rest this week and use buttermilk mayonnaise made with oil.

Like all good things, out of the mineral oil is used too long and too steadily. Go off it for a few days occasionally and the results will be much better.

The whole family will love a crisp cold salad for a hot summer's day luncheon: with the family luncheon serve hot rolls, a big plate of hot buttered toast, or just plain raisin bread. Give them berries or melon for dessert.

Just in case you don't know how to make buttermilk mayonnaise: Chill all ingredients and utensils; that's the first rule in making good mayonnaise: For a quart of oil use 3 or 4 egg yolks, a tsp. of dry mustard, one of salt, one of sugar, and 2 tbsps. cold water. Mix well before the oil is started dripping. Drip it almost drop by drop until the egg and oil thicken, then a little faster, along with small amounts of vinegar. When the oil is all used and the dressing very thick, carefully whip in almost a quart of thick buttermilk, and add plenty of paprika, well whipped in last of all. This dressing pours like thick cream.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Fresh Raspberry Ice Cream
3 cups berries, crushed and simmered with
1/2 cup water
1 cup sugar
juice of 1 lemon
3 egg whites, whipped stiff
1 cup heavy cream, whipped to stiff froth

Crush and cook the berries just long enough to release juices and permit forcing pulp through a sieve. Cool the pulp and juice, add sugar and lemon juice when cool.

Whip the chilled whites at the moment you want them. Add to the prepared juice and whip until the two are well mixed.

Whip the chilled cream to a stiff froth, then with the egg whites and juice, the cream when finished should be a compact but light froth. Place in freezing chamber immediately and do not stir for an hour, then just enough to turn the bottom to the top.

I like to make my ice creams at least 12 hours before they are to be served. Then, not so much could be used to freeze them, the cream can be cut in firm slices, and the texture will be found creamy and fine.

Raspberry Sherbet
To the amount of juice and pulp, plus sugar and lemon juice, used in the ice cream formula, add the stiffly whipped white of one egg. Stir a few times while freezing to prevent too much clear juice sinking to bottom of pan.

There are approximately 2800 calories in the ice cream recipe, with the servings numbering 14; the sherbet has a lighter calory total: 1165, with portions for 10.

Luncheon Affords Time For Travel Talk of Distant Lands

It was a thoughtful consideration for her guests and their opportunity of enjoying renewed associations with Mrs. Samuel Nau after her recent world travels, that led Mrs. W. E. Winslow to choose auction bridge rather than contract, as the amusement feature of a delightful bridge luncheon at which she entertained yesterday in her home, 1914 North Main street.

Friends interested in the afternoon's hospitality, sent many flowers to be added to those from Mrs. Winslow's garden in adornment of the home, including beautiful clusters from Mrs. Anna Richards and from Mrs. Don Andrews. An especially lovely grouping in which all the rich soft hues of midsummer seemed to blend, graced the long table in the dining room where places were found for the course luncheon served.

Mrs. Richards lent her assistance throughout the afternoon in designating bridge table places, collecting card scores, and the other pleasant responsibilities of entertaining. When scores were tallied, Mrs. J. Frank Burke proved to have been the most successful, with Mrs. J. E. Liebig his nearest competitor. Each was presented with a quilted silk pillow, the intricate stitches of which had been set by their hostess. At the same time, Mrs. Harry Duckett was amply consoled for her low score, by a filmy handkerchief whose fine needlework also represented Mrs. Winslow's time and skill.

In the party spending such a pleasant afternoon enlivened by informal travel tales by Mrs. Nau, were also Mrs. W. D. Ranney, Mrs. Adam Zaiser, Mrs. C. P. EARLY HISTORY OF FIRE DEPT. IS RECALLED succeeded Lyon, W. P. Browne took over the duties of chief in 1886. About this time, a fire in the engine house destroyed the company's wardrobe and fire activities were largely abandoned for a time.

A water system and hose carts revolutionized the service in 1892 and the personnel was built up to 45 volunteers.

Payment for services on false alarms first came into effect in February, 1899, and is chronicled in the first clipping in the scrapbook, taken from the Evening Blade. It was finally decided by the city council that one-half pay should be given in cases where the fire was extinguished before the fire brigade arrived. In May, it was voted to pay $2 for a fire and $1 for a false alarm.

The Los Angeles Times on February 19, 1899, reported a small fire in the home of S. M. Jasper near the Griffith Lumber company which was put out without much damage. The next day, in connection with a small fire, the firemen voiced protest at being called "rubbernecks" by "many boys and some men."

Issue Water Order

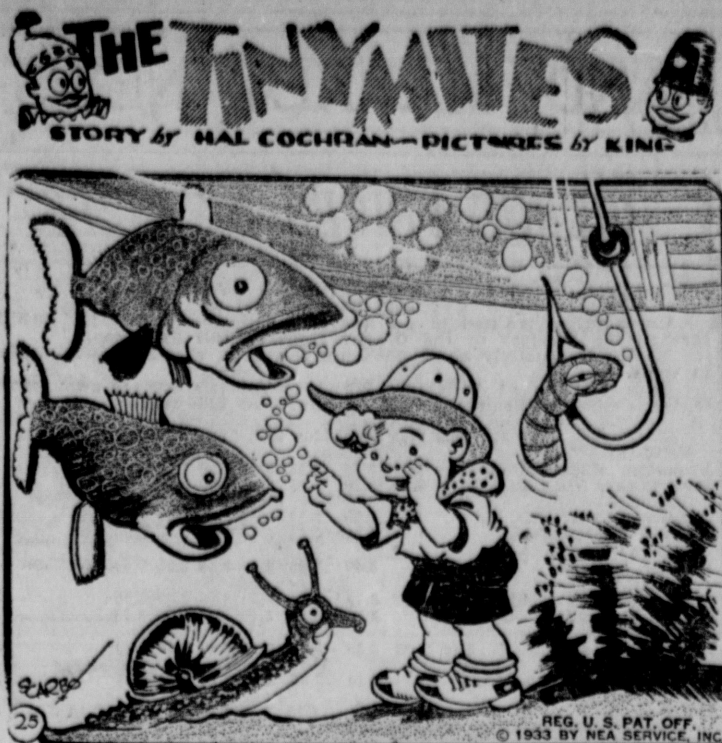

Both the Blade and Orange County Herald told of the fire on Washington's birthday, 1899, at Stern-Goodman's store, 306 West Fourth street. Chief J. D. Browne issued an order after the fire that residents should not use water during a fire because "not enough force could be obtained through the fire hose to make a respectable stream. The city council decided to arrest and fine anyone $25 for sprinkling during a fire.

The election of officers in June, 1899, returned Chief Browne for his thirteenth term. The department personnel consisted of W. C. Young, first assistant; Ed Mosbaugh, second assistant; W. C. Young, president; Ed Mosbaugh, vice-president; M. M. Johnson, secretary; C. G. Beard, Joe Cordi, R. S. Dickinson, Theo. Kling, James Maher and J. E. Thomas, hose care No. 1; George Young, George Peters and R. Moffit, hose care No. 2; Ed Mosbaugh, Charles Grouard and Jacob Greening, hook and ladder.

W. C. Young Appointed

Chief Browne resigned in 1900 to take a position in the water works and William C. Young succeeded him. One of his first fires was in the offices and the works of the Santa Ana Gas and Electric company and was extinguished without great damage.

Agitation was started in 1901 to build a new fire hall and articles of incorporation were taken out by the men. The directors of the Firemen's Co-operative association were C. E. Grouard, R. S. Dickinson, George E. Peters, Roland A. Lord, George McPhee, W. C. Young and Ransom Reid. A new site for the fire hall was secured across from the library on Sycamore street adjoining the new Masonic temple.

Wee Duncy gladly drew some more and made the little school fish roar. And then he wrote some numbers and exclaimed, "Well, who an add?"

"I'll be your teacher for a spell and, very shortly, I can tell which one of you is pretty good, and which is very bad."

One fish said, "That's a real mean trick, Gee, we don't like arithmetic. Let's play some kindergarten games, like all the small fish do."

"Our daily lessons are all done and now we're ready for some fun. We never like to keep on working when we're really through."

"Ha, ha!" laughed Scouty. "You're like me. That's just the way I used to be. I never did like school work, but I got along all right."

"I found 'twas best to do my work. It never did pay me to shirk. One day my teacher said, 'You are a real bright Tynmite.' Just then they heard a large bell ring and Copy shouted, 'What's that thing?' 'Why, school's out,' said the teacher. 'All the little fish are free.'"

"Why don't you Tynies run out and play? They'll name some games that can be tried." "All right," replied one Tiny. "All you fish come follow me."

A grand rush through the school-house door and they were all outside once more. Two large fish promptly left the rest and Scouty shouted, "Hey!"

"I know what you are going to do. Be careful! I am warning you. Don't grab hold of that hook, or you will both be yanked away and, my, oh my, how he would love to pull you to the surface. That's what he is fishing for."

"Now, not for my good, but your own, just let that great big hook alone. If you are smart, I will not have to warn you any more."

THE NATION CALLED UPON TO DO ITS PART

President Roosevelt last night laid pretty much the complete case before the American people. He presented the situation as he saw it, undoubtedly as it is, and without question a vast majority of the citizens of our republic listened in, and gave him a sympathetic ear.

He was speaking on behalf of all of us, and he explained the reason for the various forms of legislation, and emphasized the idea that the various bills that were passed were not disconnected. Their passage was not a haphazard accident—they were all part of a definite plan for recovery. They were worked out in harmony one with the other, designed, when completed as they have been, to make a complete whole, whereby the President, his cabinet, his appointees, and advisors can be assured that a complete program has been laid down, each part dependent upon the working of every other part for its highest usefulness.

The President emphatically repudiated that doctrine of every economic school that insists that we are governed by undeviating economic law, over which men have no control. It would hardly be necessary for the President to have emphasized this. For it has been through the repudiation, suspension, or control, by men, of these so-called "economic laws," that most great fortunes have been built up.

The President's timely address was primarily due to the fact that he saw that prosperity cannot be delayed until codes have been adopted by all the various lines of industrial production. Great institutions are ponderous, more or less, in their movements, and it will take time to work out details. And there are literally thousands of small enterprises which will not be able to work out codes for a long period. With the rising prices, the mass of unemployed, and low wages, the President has recognized that his whole enterprise is certain to fail unless employment rapidly increases and wages simultaneously increase.

So he makes the appeal to people everywhere to carry out the spirit of the law voluntarily, and to immediately employ more help, even though they be small enterprises where the number of increase may be only one or not more than 10. He admitted at once, in this part of his discussion, that those who failed might make a profit out of their refusal to conform, but they would be making this profit, said the president, to the sacrifice of patriotism and our country's good.

The testing time of the nation is right upon us, in the light of this utterance. Has the nation sufficient moral and spiritual vitality to meet this challenge, or has the desire for profit and the spirit of greed so gripped men, that the motive of clear necessity, patriotism and the good of the country will not affect them? The President drew a dark picture if this challenge is not met. Next winter, he declared, will be worse than last winter.

There are some of us possibly, who expected to hear a declaration from the President, that those who did not fall in line might meet the power of organized society through the government, operating in such a compelling and strong way, through force, that it will be accomplished in any case, but that those who are so forced in line are the "slackers" of our nation who have in them the spirit of treason. The President did not choose, in the remotest way, to appeal to this element of fear, except as it was represented in the fear of the nation's collapse, and the apparent inadvertent suggestion that there are adequate penalties in the law. And in this again, the challenge is presented. We have the opportunity to achieve with the highest motive. Some way or other, we cannot help believing that the President and his advisors do not propose to permit of the failure which he prophesied would come, if it were not done, but that he did not want to give the alternative, which we believe he will finally use if necessary, to bring about this necessary achievement.

With the knowledge had of all men that we have sufficient production from the farm and factory and mine to meet the needs of all people in our nation, the President unquestionably is determined that whatever method must finally be used to accomplish that end, will be used.

The position that our representatives took in the World Economic Conference has almost determined that our nation proposes to "go it alone." Our decisions at this conference were President Roosevelt's decisions. Chester Rowell has very logically pointed out that if that is the final decision, and we are proposing to program our future along the lines of being self-sufficient, that the profit system is over, and that socialism is the answer. If the methods by which the capitalists and the farmer can make a profit, are impossible when the foreign markets are destroyed, then there is only one alternative, and that is there must be such an adjustment within our borders that the production shall be used to satisfy all of our people.

This must necessarily be in the back of President Roosevelt's mind. He is appealing to the nation, endeavoring to arouse them in the spirit of idealism. We hope that this appeal will accomplish its purpose. But from Wall Street and the wheat pit do not come any reassuring reverberations.

We know, of course, that in point of numbers, a large percentage of the people of the country will be directly behind the President in his plan. Whether the ones to whom he was appealing will fall in line, remains to be seen. But through the process that President Roosevelt is using, laying his program directly before the American people, he can rest assured, first, that the people are with him, and second, that if this plan does not succeed, that just to the degree that it fails, the people will support him in any necessary procedure to enforce obedience upon those to whom the sense of right and duty do not rest very heavily.

FLYING STILL HAS ITS RISKS

The experiences of Jimmy Mattern and Wiley Post and Captain and Mrs. Mattison in their solo flights around the earth still make the railroad and the ocean liner the more desirable modes of transportation for getting to our destination. Most of us will be resigned to let these adventurous humans take the risks until such time as air travel will be safer than it now is.

And yet such failures are not discouraging. In fact, aviation has advanced a great deal since Charles Lindbergh made his solo flight from New York to Paris—a feat that thrilled the world and made the young man famous. Since that time many others have flown across the Atlantic. The flight of the Italian air armada from Italy to New York was a greater feat than that of Lindbergh. The transportation of passengers and mail by airplanes has now become so common that no one gives it a second thought.

All this has been made possible by such experiments as those of Jimmy Mattern, Wiley Post, and Captain and Mrs. Mattison. What is all but impossible today becomes a commonplace occurrence tomorrow. Five or six years ago, when a number of East to West flyers were lost in the ocean, never to be heard of again, there were those who said it was foolhardy to continue such experimentation. But the daring have kept on. And we are making progress continually.

Whether flying in air over land and sea will ever be as safe as transportation over land and sea may be open to question. But he who knows the story of human progress during the past century will hardly dare to be dogmatic about the impossibility of anything. Telegraph, telephone, radio, electric power in all its varied uses, were wonders once. Today they are commonplace. Who will dare to deny that flying will not become equally commonplace? And, not only in the atmosphere, but in the stratosphere also, where there are no air currents, no storms or clouds, a continuous sunshine, we may, and perhaps will some day fly.

For Wiser Wise Men Christian Science Monitor

When a Niagara of knowledge produces but a trickle for the public, the world wonders why. So much book learning was probably never housed under one roof as recently at Chicago. The occasion was a congress of physical scientists, the roof belonged to the world's largest hotel. Forty societies met in the fortnight. Their combined program made a book of 146 pages. Rarely has earth seen such a flood of facts.

But the earth was not properly irrigated by the deluge. The wise men did not get their product to the public. A sideshow at the world's fair near by could have won almost as good a hearing.

The learned men, it appears, have not yet learned how to talk to the public. They can teach a class, write a book and ultimately may change the world's thought. But face to face with the world, when high and low are ready to hear, they do not know how to act. Here and there an individual wise man does, but generally the savants don't.

What these students have found can be given to the world at large only through the press. One big meeting at a time is all that the press usually can report adequately. Forty meetings rolled into one furnish a cloudburst. Most of them have to be ignored.

The situation is much as if all the steel plants in the country were suddenly brought together and put into full production at one point. They could turn out steel as formerly, but unless their water and rail connections were enlarged they could not move the output.

The professors perhaps do not realize they are manufacturers of news. Good news is a commodity sorely needed. It is unfortunate the kidnaper and the gangster get so much of the front page, while the wise men, by saying so much at one time, get no publicity.

If the world is to hear the messages of its students, learned societies had best dispense with the avalanche system so that each can receive its deserved attention. They would also do well to hire a press agent who would bridge the gap between knowledge and the masses.

Sentimental Journeys Christian Science Monitor

Tourists have their uses. Everybody, of course, recognizes the material largesse they dispense, gladdening the hearts and filling the purses of hotel keepers and hot-dog purveyors. Their aesthetic and cultural influence, however, has, rather unfairly, remained more or less unsung.

At this season each year an irresistible impulse to go somewhere rises in the human breast. Easterners yearn for the West and westerners feel they simply must go East. The phenomenon becomes most marked shortly after June merges into July. Midsummer's sun then stirs the Romanly lying latent in the most staid and least adventurous, and railroad guides and sailing dates become open gateways to unaccustomed scenes.

Let it not be supposed, however, that the traveler alone reaps the harvest of contentment and adventure that fructify from his peregrinations. The native upon whom the tourist descends extracts no less a meed of pleasure and instruction from the chance encounter. Not infrequently does it happen that he learns things about his habitat from the tourist. He may never have passed beyond the confines of his canton in Switzerland and still remained indifferent to the strange, remote beauty of the herdsman's yodel until the rapt look upon the tourist's face awakens his own appreciation.

Even the most phlegmatic Parisian concierge may catch something of the enthusiasm of the visitor overwhelmed by the glory of a sunset seen through the frame of the Arc de Triomphe in the "Place of the Star." Londoners reared within sound of the sonorous chimers of Big Ben have been known to cross the portals of Westminster Abbey for the first time because strangers who had come halfway round the world to see it inquired of them the way.

Decidedly, tourists have their uses.

More Truth Than Poetry

IN DEFENSE OF FIBBING

You may not like the face of the stranger
You happen to meet at the club,
But you don't ever say,
In a casual way,
"I don't like your face, Mr. Dubb.
I can see you're the kind of sour person
That people are pleased to forget.
I don't like that sly
Sneaking leer in your eye;
I wish that we never had met."

You may fancy your boss is a moron
But you do not remark, to his face,
"To tell you the truth
You are rough and uncouth,
And your clothes are a flaming disgrace.
I am hunting a better position
In a bigger and smarter run store;
In a day or two I
Shall be saying good-by,
And I hope we don't meet any more."

I do not like wagging-tongued liars,
But if all of the vast public throng
Their thoughts would disclose,
Do you even suppose
That peace would endure very long?
What trouble soon would run riot,
What rancor would shortly arise,
What friendships would smash
With a hideous crash
If nobody ever told lies!

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

BEWARE OF SOFTNESS!

The depression period has put a great strain upon our softer emotions.

The vast army of men and women with hunger gnawing at their stomachs, cold blowing upon their bodies, and fear gripping their hearts have appealed to our nobler sympathies.

A little selfishly, perhaps, but to a marked extent nevertheless, we have come to their rescue in various ways.

We have met actual need with material relief.

We have met the problem of the hard pressed home owner by postponing tax-payment dates and relaxing penalties for tax delinquency.

All this has been to the good! For some time to come it may well be that we will have to expand rather than retract such policies.

I mean no criticism of such ventures in easing the burden on backs that have been weakened by the last four years of economic stringency.

But I want to call attention to a danger at the heart of these socially sound policies.

We must not let abuses of these policies soften the fiber of our people.

Yesterday there came to my attention the case of an employee in a state government at a salary of $200 per month who has been notified on May 15 that he would be dropped from the state service on July 1. He straightway applied for relief to begin July 1. His application was of course denied, and there are, perhaps, not many cases so extreme, but there are thousands of marginal earners who tend in a time like this to slump into a permanently inactive class.

It is generally assumed that the mass of tax delinquencies is made of hard pressed small home owners and that all unpaid taxes reflect inability to pay. But I have before me the record of a nearby city which discovered, by close analysis, that 40 per cent of its $12,000,000 total of delinquent taxes was owned by 800 individuals.

Pressure upon these 800, many of whom were large property owners, able to pay but taking advantage of tax-payment delays provided for poor home owners, resulted in full payment of the taxes.

Such information as I have would lead me to believe that a goodly part of taxes now delinquent throughout the United States are taxes owed by a relatively few large taxpayers.

The point I want to make is that an important job just now is to see to it that both the relief of material goods and of legislative arrangements is reserved for the really needy.

Otherwise we shall pay the penalty of softness!

DISRESPECTFUL WORDS

There comes the day in every mother's life, when her child speaks to her in disrespectful words. What is she to do about it? Ignore it or punish it or talk about it? Attend to it, that is certain. Just how, must be settled by the mother herself, according to the circumstances.

The words themselves do not matter so much. Children of tender years, by that I mean those under six, or thereabout, are experimenting with language. They gather all the words they hear and try them out. Now and then they find some disreputable ones and astound the family with them.

That is not important if the language of the family is habitually good. The cool silence with which such an error is met will soon settle it. The words that must be checked at the source are those spoken in tones of bitterness, with pointed directness and intention to wound.

"Shut up, you old so and so, I hate you," cannot be ignored. The child who uttered that speech was well started on the wrong road. He should have been brought back and redirected with suddenness and dispatch. Usually the best thing to do is to stand still, keep perfectly quiet and look at him long and steadily until his eyes drop. Then in cold quiet tones send him to a quiet corner to meditate upon the respect that is due to his mother as his mother. There is such a thing and because children are not born with a recognition of the fact it must be taught them.

It is a mistake to get into a tantrum about it because that gives the child the wrong pattern to follow. When one, old or young, loses control of himself, particularly when that means his tongue goes on the loose, he denies himself the very respect he is demanding. Children, and grownup people, unconsciously pay the tribute of respect by the way they speak. No more, no less. Children may have to be led to see this in their early years but they are confirmed in it in their maturity by our own attitudes.

Silence the wrong speaking child for a period of half an hour or so to allow his mood to change.

From The Register Files 15 Years Ago Today

JULY 25, 1919

Articles of incorporation of the "New Bethesda," an organization of Spiritualist churches of the county, had been filed with the county clerk. The corporation, not organized for pecuniary profit, was for a period of 50 years and the principal place of business was to be Santa Ana.

Santa Ana city council was considering plans for the repaving of North Main street and the resurfacing of East First street, and it was believed that a bond issue for the projects would be submitted to the citizens at an early date.

Construction was practically completed on a Fox film company set near the pavilion at East Newport, where an ocean liner had been constructed and when the picture was shot, was to be towed out to sea and wrecked, in accordance with the plot of "Wings of the Morning," in which William Farnum and Louise Lovely were co-starred.
